GOOD news for Detroit and prosperity generally is the employing of more men by the Ford Motor Co. Ford's working total is now 97,565 men, only 12,435 below the peak figures of 1926. A payroll of more than $500,000 a day, about $180,000,000 a year, is not so bad.

GOOD from evil. Senator Borah wanted $100,000 to pay money given by Mr. Sinclair to the Republican party. The idea was to make the old Republican lady an honest girl. OMAHA IS ISOLATED BY SEVERE BLIZZARD

All Wires to Nebraska City Down; Follows Wake of Tornadoes

Chicago, April 6—Omaha, Nebr., is isolated by a severe blizzard, according to reports here early today.

Five inches of snow fell in Omaha during the night and snow was still falling there today, the Chicago weather bureau reported this morning.

All wires to the Nebraska city are down and telephone and telegraph companies reported almost all wires out west of Des Moines, Iowa.

The Nebraska storm came in the wake of a series of tornadoes, which earlier in the week swept over Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas, taking a toll of seven lives and causing heavy property damage.

Chicago was darkened today by a heavy fog which presaged stormy weather. The temperature here dropped overnight from 60 degrees to near freezing.

SUSPENDED CANTON CAPTAIN WINS FIGHT

Ben Clarke Victorious in Battle for Reinstatement on Police Force

Canton, April 6—Ben E. Clarke, suspended Canton police captain, emerged victorious here today in his fight for re-instatement on the local police force.

Clarke, who had been suspended by Mayor C. C. Curtis, Jan. 15, last, will receive half-pay retroactive to that date, according to the decision of the city Civil Service Commission, which this morning voted 2 to 1 to reinstate the former Berillon officer and continue the half-pay until such time as Clarke is able to resume his duties.

Clarke, partially paralyzed as the result of being shot through accidental discharge of his own revolver when it dropped from his pocket, Dec. 31, 1926, may be able to return to work by August of this year, according to his physicians.

Class 20 Years Old

Trinity Baptist Sunday School Group Founded by Mrs. J. S. Rayl, Will Celebrate Anniversary Sunday

SUNDAY will mark the twentieth anniversary of one of Marion's oldest and largest church organizations, the Rayl Sunday School Class of Trinity Baptist Church, founded by Mrs. J. S. Rayl, April 8, 1908.

A feature of the celebration Sunday will be the Easter lesson study to be conducted by the former teacher and founder, Mrs. Rayl.

The class, which began its lengthy career with a charter membership of 11, more than half of whom are still active in the church and class work, has a total membership at the present time of 175. One hundred and three of that number were present for the service last Sunday when plans for the celebration on Easter were completed.

Starts in Old Church

The Rayl Class, composed of both men and women, was founded in the old Free Will Baptist Church on E. Center-st, and organization was completed in May of 1908 at the home of Mrs. Rayl. It was the first organized class in the Marion Free Baptist Sunday School.

Mrs. Rayl served as teacher of the class for seven years, until ill health forced her to resign. Mr. Rayl, associate teacher, then took over the class and taught until his death in 1921. L. J. Parker served as teacher until 1923 when E. O. Uncapher, the present teacher, was elected to that position.

The founder of the group, Mrs. Rayl, has not lost interest in the class, however, and in addition to being a regular attendant at class meetings during the last 20 years, has served on the advisory board.

The class is divided into 12 groups, each with a presiding officer. Class officials serving at the present time are L. F. Habiger, president; M. O. Stoll, vice president; A. W. Somerlot, secretary; Mrs. S. W. Rinehart, assistant secretary, and E. U. Patten, treasurer.

Soviet Women Plan Another "Battalion of Death" for Any Future War Breaks

Compulsory Military Drill for Co-Eds in High Schools and Universities Will Be Started Gradually After Spring Recess; Factory Girls Drilling Now

Moscow, April 6—A new "battalion of death," composed of women, will be formed to fight under the red flag if war breaks out between any of the "capitalistic powers" and the Soviet union.

Compulsory military drill for co-eds in high schools and universities of Soviet Russia will be started gradually after the spring recess, it was learned today. The experiment will be tried first in 57 schools where girls are now voluntarily learning the art of war, drilling side by side with youths.

The Department of Education, however, has decreed that special emphasis must be laid on training girls for the sanitary corps of the army. In addition to training regiments of Amazons, it is planned to have almost th entire Red Cross corps made up of women in time of war so as to release men for the trenches.

Girl factory workers and clerks may even now be seen drilling with men after working hours. In caps and leather coats and with rifles slung over their shoulders, it is difficult to distinguish the sexes.

Military Fever Rampant

In all schools and shops the military fever is rampant. Youths of the class of 1907, who will become 21 years of age and hence liable to military service in the autumn, already have been summoned for preliminary training for four hours a week during their spare time.

Many of them have not had physical examinations and may never be called for service except in time of great emergency. The War Department is apparently determined to make use of thousands of bicycles in the next conflict, since every recruit must learn to ride. Virtually the entire bicycle production of the country is for army and factory military units.

General Voroshilov, commander-in-chief of the Red army in a speech to the military congress said that the Red army would not be increased during the next five years despite the training of new units. He explained that the increase in the army budget from $375,000,000 to $500,000,000 yearly is to provide additional technical improvements and equipment for the training of officers.

OHIO CITIES LISTED FOR NEW BUILDINGS

Canton, Youngstown, Toledo and New Philadelphia Are Included

Washington, April 6—A new list of projects under the government's $300,000,000 building program was sent to Congress today by President Coolidge.

Appropriations aggregating $15,165,500 were requested as initial cost on land purchases and buildings ultimately to cost $67,255,000.

The largest item was $14,250,000 for postoffice and other government buildings at Chicago. An appropriation of $300,000 was asked to start this work.

Ohio projects recommended and appropriations asked included:

Location, Canton, project, postoffice, etc., limit $510,000, appropriation $300,000.

Location, Youngstown, project, postoffice, courthouse, etc., limit $310,000, appropriation $100,000.

Location, Toledo, project, courthouse, and other government offices. Limit $900,000, appropriation $200,000.

Location, New Philadelphia, project, postoffice, limit $100,000, appropriation $50,000.

OHIO HAS SIX PER CENT OF RADIO SETS IN U. S.

Washington, April 6—Twelve per cent of the 5,267,000 radio receivers in operation in American homes are in the state of New York, according to a compilation made public today by the Federal Radio Commission.

Pennsylvania had 612,000 or eight per cent of the sets. California and Illinois, seven per cent each, Ohio six per cent and Michigan four per cent.

STREET CLEANERS TO START WORK MONDAY

Announcement Made at City Hall as Citizens Battle Dust Laden Wind Today

While Marion citizens were battling dust and dirt blown up from the uptown streets by spirited spring winds today, announcement was made at City Hall that the night street cleaning corps would begin cleaning the streets of the business district Monday night.

At the present time streets in the business section, particularly, have been filthy, filled with the winter's accumulation of dirt and papers.

FIND EVIDENCE OF PLOT BY LIQUOR SMUGGLERS

Cleveland, April 6—New evidence of a plot by liquor smugglers to "bore from within" has been sent from here to Washington by Collector of Customs A. P. Fenton, it was learned today.

Fenton declared a convicted rumrunner, a man suspected of being a smuggler, applied to him for admission to the Lake Erie Border Patrol Service within the last 10 days. The collector said he believed the attempt was the fore-runner of a plan to place their agents aboard rum boats and to [illegible] as spies.

TRAFFIC RULE CHANGE LIKELY, IS PREDICTION

Short Left-Hand Turn at Intersections Regarded as Probable Here

URGED BY POLICE CHIEF

Will Be Made Possible by New Signal Lights, To Be Installed Soon

That the rule permitting the left-hand turn at street intersections may be adopted here following the installation of the new traffic lights, was intimated by Police Chief Thompson today in discussing traffic conditions.

The left hand turn was the subject of much discussion at the time the present lights were installed, but because of the space taken up in the center of the streets by the light it was thought it would not be practicable and as a consequence was not authorized.

Changing of the traffic ordinance, the chief pointed out is entirely up to council and any action it might see fit to take will decide future plan at intersections.

"I am in favor of the left hand turn," the chief said. "It is being carried out in many of the larger cities and has proven an effective way of preventing traffic congestions at the intersections."

Proposed Change

Motorists who contemplate making the left-hand turn, would draw over toward the center of the street while waiting for the signal to make the turn. This, would, it was explained by the chief, leave a lane open for through traffic.

Under the present system, two or three motorists who contemplate making a left-hand turn, block the entire street while waiting for the light to change.

The chief also said he would advocate the placing of mushroom lights at each of the six intersections, where the new signal lights are to be installed. Unless there is a mushroom light, motorists will cut the corner in spite of anything that can be done, the chief said. With the light in the center of the street, however, it will be less easy to cut the corner and will therefore eliminate, to a great extent this practice, the chief declares.

Because of the fact that there are already wires to the center of the streets, the cost of installing the lights, would be small, he pointed out.

Work To Start Soon

Work of installing the new lights, which will be of the side-arm type, is expected to start within the next week. Iron poles to support the lights have been ordered and will be installed at each corner of the six intersections. The lights will be attached to these poles about 15 feet from the ground and will extend out from the poles about three feet.

The side-arm type of light, because of it being visible from any angle or position on the street is being adopted in many of the larger cities in place of the center light.

TOO FAR OFF?

That is, Success Was, He Thought; Director Takes Life

New York, April 6 — Success was just around the corner for Perke Hamburg, but just around the corner was too far away to answer the immediate financial needs of the brilliant musical director. He killed himself with a duelling pistol in a hotel here early today.

Hotel officials said Hamburg had been unable to pay when asked for an advance payment on his suit of rooms. But in a few short weeks he was to have received $1,000 in cash and $500 a week thereafter for acting as musical director of a forthcoming theatrical production according to a contract found in his pocket.

Whysall Takes Lead With First Straw Hat of Year

FOR two months the towns have been proclaiming the arrival of spring. Two weeks ago the weatherman officially recorded that spring had arrived.

But it remained for George Whysall, general manager of the Marion Water Co., to formally introduce the new straw season to Marionites. Yesterday Mr. Whysall, casting aside convention and his winter hat, appeared on the streets of the city wearing a straw hat. Disregarding May 15, the official opening date of the straw hat season Mr. Whysall "scooped" the rest of the city by more than 30 days.

While new straw hats for the summer season have not appeared in the windows of men's furnishing stores, the hat cleaning establishments have started reblocking of last years models.

YEAR'S RECORD

110 Absent from Harding High Is High Mark; Illness Prevalent

EVIDENCE of the large amount of illness in the city at the present time is shown in the record of Friday afternoon of last week, when 110 students were absent from Harding High School. This figure, made known today, is the largest number of absences reported for any half-day this year.

Although fewer absences were reported this week, 60 students were out of school presumably on account of illness on Wednesday afternoon.

BLOOM TAKES LOCHER'S POST

Zimmerman May Be Donahey's Appointee to Lieutenant Governorship

Columbus, April 6—Appointment by Gov. Vic Donahey of Lieut. Gov. Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, Democrat, as state director of commerce, succeeding Attorney Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, also a Democrat, was announced today. Locher's appointment as U. S. Senator was announced by the governor late yesterday.

It was indicated today that Governor Donahey may appoint Attorney Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, Democrat, to succeed Bloom as lieutenant governor. Zimmerman was the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for attorney general during the last state campaign. He is the son of John L. Zimmerman, well known Springfield attorney.

Bloom is scheduled to assume his new duties as commerce director on April 16, the date of Locher's resignation from that office. Locher expects to take up his work as U. S. Senator on April 16.

Bloom is serving his third term as lieutenant governor of Ohio. In 1925, Governor Donahey selected Bloom as a member of the State Utilities Commission but the Ohio Senate rejected the appointment. Bloom is a practicing attorney at Bowling Green where he also is engaged in the real estate business, banking and other business ac-

GAS RATE HEARINGS NEAR FINAL STAGE

Closing Testimony on Valuation Scheduled for April 23

The gas rate controversy in which Marion and other Ohio cities have been involved with the Logan Gas Co. for approximately two years is nearing its close.

This was indicated today in a statement coming from the office of the state utilities commission in Columbus, where hearings in the dispute have been in progress.

Officials of the commission voiced the opinion that when the hearing is resumed on April 23, at 10 A. M., it will be the last session in the case so far as testimony relative to valuations of the company's property is concerned.

THREE MILLION DAMAGE DONE IN CUBAN FIRE

Three Standard Oil Co. Plants at Regla Swept; Incendiarism Suspected

Havana, April 6—The fire which swept the three refining plants of the Standard Oil Co. on the outskirts of Regla was controlled today after it had caused $3,000,000 damage. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

United States sailors from the battleship Wyoming helped the firemen to prevent the flames from spreading into the town. Nineteen sailors were overcome by fumes.

Forty-one residents of the fire zone were injured, including one woman.

The fire still was burning this morning, but had been localized. Soldiers and police were guarding the district.

Eleven petroleum and gasoline storage tanks were destroyed.

For a time it looked as though the flames would spread to ships anchored in the eastern part of Havana Harbor and they were removed from their moorings.

When the fire was at its height the great $15,000,000 plant was a blazing inferno, the glare being visible for nearly 20 miles.

Residents of the neighborhood fled from their homes in panic as the tanks began to explode. The panic stricken people fled to the water side where they were taken aboard boats. Owing to the vast clouds of dense black smoke which billowed upward from the blazing tanks ships turned their searchlights upon the shore to aid the rescue work.

AMERICAN COUNTRIES START PEACE GROUP

Start Machinery for Pacific Settlement of Disputes in Southern Republics

Washington, April 6—With the establishment here today of a 12-nation Pan-American conciliation commission, permanent machinery looking to the pacific settlement of disputes between republics of the American continent is functioning for the first time in history.

The venture is regarded as a possible beginning of an American League of Nations.

The commission, composed of Dr. Jose Varela, Minister of Uruguay; Dr. Enrique Olaya, Minister of Columbia, and Don Juan B. Chevalier, Charge D'Affaires of Panama, is set up under the provisions of a treaty written at the fifth Pan-American Conference at Santiago, Chile, in May, 1923. Twelve of the 17 signatory American nations have ratified.

Sing Sing, N. Y., April 6—The Sing Sing Prison cell which Frank ("Dixie") Baldwin, 22, occupied for more than 15 months, was ready today. The negro was executed last night for the murder of John Dickerson, a farmer of Orangeburg, N. Y.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE SOUGHT IN BUSINESS AREA

Main and Center-sts Included in Program To Go Before Council

PETITIONS DRAWN UP

Organization of Property Owners To Be Formed To Back Project

Improvement of Main and Center-sts through Marion's uptown business district is sought in a movement which has been inaugurated by prominent owners of business property along the two thoroughfares.

The project, which will have the backing of an organization of business men and property owners expected to be formed next week, includes plans for new paving and a new and modern electric lighting system for these two main thoroughfares in the uptown district.

Petitions for the pavings are now in circulation and will be presented to City Council in the near future. This was indicated today by a property owner who has been taking a leading part in the project and who reports that a large number of signatures have already been attached to the petitions.

The plans as outlined at this time call for resurfacing of Main-st from the Big Four railroad to Columbia-st and of Center-st from Main to a point east which will be determined later.

Installation of a new lighting system is proposed over the same thoroughfares, the idea being to give the uptown district modern, white way illumination.

It is proposed to install lines of cluster light standards on both sides of the streets to conform with those which have been authorized for the section of W. Center-st now being improved from the Hocking Valley railway to Oak-st.

The organization to be formed next week will have this project for the initial goal. It is planned, however, as a permanent organization which will continue working out an active

SILVER-ST SCHOOL PLAY NETS PROFIT

About $40 Is Cleared in Production of Operetta, "Twilight Alley"

About $40 was cleared from the operetta, "Twilight Alley," presented by the Glee Clubs of the Silver Street School, last night, yesterday afternoon and Thursday night at the school. Each performance was well attended. Miss Charlotte Willoughby, a teacher directed the presentation.

Both of the two acts of the operetta took place in the court of "the old shoe" in a tenement in "Twilight Alley," the one at noon of a day in spring and the other at sunset of the same day.

Music was furnished by the Silver Street School Orchestra and with Miss Louise Sipes as piano accompanist. The cast as made up of Juanita Wade, Evelyn Stout, Ulric Mathena, Vivian Smeltzer, Starling Lawis Annabell Emmons, Margaret Herriot, Helen Haubert, Beulah Siders, Marguerite Everly, Eva Dyke, Elnora Hood and Zelma Davis.

Others taking part were: chorus of girls, Caroline Griffith, Vera Dyke, Virginia Neal, Lela Danner, Cora Ferguson, Wilma Green, Catherine Minard, Marietta Grant, Jeanette Stevens, Audrey Rigney, Goldie Colegrove, Dorothy Fisher, Helen Cook and Louise Carpenter; boys' chorus, Harold Wendler, Walter Wade, Harry Gustin, Harold Bell, Kenneth Wren, Paul Trimmer, Harold Mackin, Leo Young and Robert Breece, and "Jack's baseball nine," Lloyd Bowman Clifford McCleary, Le Roy Clark, Clarence Smith, Gordon Johnson, William Skinner, Odell Daniels and Albert Smith.

FRIEND, FOE OF AL CHECK HIS PROGRESS

Some Doubt If He Can Maintain His Present Swift Pace

Washington, April 6—Democratic leaders who are anxiously following with pad and pencil Gov. Al Smith's progress through the primaries and state conventions thus far held estimated today that if he can maintain his present pace he will get the 734 votes necessary to nominate him for the presidency in Houston.

Some of them do not believe Smith can maintain the rate of progress he has thus far made, pointing out that most of the states which have already acted constitute very friendly territory. Others, however, believe he can and cite figures to substantiate their claims.

In any event, Governor Smith today has 248 delegates either pledged or instructed for him—with two-thirds of the country yet to be heard from. This is seven more votes than he had on the first ballot at Madison Square Garden four years ago.

From 13 States

The 248 votes already pledged or instructed for Smith come from 13 states and territories that either through primaries or state conventions have expressed their Democratic presidential preference. They are: Arizona, Idaho, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Alaska, Philippines and the Virgin Islands.

At the high point of his strength in Madison Square Garden four years ago, on the seventy-sixth and seventy-seventh ballots when he polled 367 and 368 votes, these same 13 states and territories gave Smith 100½ votes. Consequently the New York governor has made a gain of 87½ votes over his 1924 strength in the same territory.

How They Figure

Such a ratio of progress—if it can be maintained in the states still to act—would be sufficient to send the New York governor over the top at Houston. His opponents, however, are not willing to concede that the pace can be maintained throughout the two-thirds of the states and territories still to act.

The anti-Smith people, while admitting the seeming significance of the figures, contend that they nevertheless are misleading. They contend that Smith will never break into the solid South, save Louisiana, to any appreciable degree, and they cling tenaciously to the position that a combination of the dry South and West will be sufficient to keep the New York governor from ever attaining two-thirds of the 1,100 delegates in the Houston convention.

EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE AT HARPSTER CHURCH

Harpster, April 6—Plans have been completed for an Easter sunrise prayer service at 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the M. E. Church under the auspices of members of the Epworth League. Special observance of the day will be made at the Sunday School at 10 o'clock followed by a sermon at 11 o'clock. A baptismal service also will be held at the morning service. Evangelistic services will be held at the church Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. Special musical programs have been arranged for each of the services.

MARYSVILLE TALENT IN RADIO PROGRAM

Marysville, April 6—Marysville radio fans were pleased with a program given by local talent which was broadcast over station WEAO, Columbus, last night. Those taking part were Miss Marion Lehue, director of music in the Marysville public schools; Mrs. Paris Outland, organist at the local Congregational Church, and Lawrence Miller.

THIS MARION MAN FREE OF AGONIES O F INDIGESTION

He Tells How Konjola Banished Two Years of Stomach Trouble

"I think I must be the happiest man in Marion, since Konjola has ended my stomach trouble, and I don't hesitate to indorse such a medicine," said Mr. J. H. Williams, well-known local citizen, living at 621 E. George St., this city.

"I had been suffering with stomach and liver trouble," said Mr. Williams. "My food would never digest right, but always seemed to turn sour and ferment. This caused gas bloating and my heart would flutter and jump until I thought it would stop beating entirely. I would become so short of breath I had to gasp for air. Dizzy spells would come over me, especially when I attempted to stoop over. Lots of times I had to catch myself to keep from falling. I was badly constipated all the time and had to take the strongest laxatives almost every night. I was in very poor health in general, and had been trying so many things without benefit that I didn't know what to do for myself.

"A friend of mine told me about Konjola and how so many people in Marion were getting wonderful results with this medicine. I got two bottles and before the first one was gone I could feel a big improvement all over my system, and as I continued with Konjola I was getting better every day. Now I feel like a different man. I can eat what I want and never have a touch of indigestion. The bloating spells never come over me, and I don't have the dizzy attacks or headaches. I have a better appetite and can sleep good at nights. My food agrees with me better than it has in two years, and I am feeling like I never had stomach trouble in my life.

"Konjola has built me up in a great many ways and I certainly am thankful for this medicine, so it is a pleasure to indorse it to everyone who is needing it."

Konjola is strongly recommended at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

We do not wish to cast any reflections upon the habits of Mr. Trotzky, but maybe he was only half shot.

Cheer up, Mr. Coolidge. Maybe Mr Mellon will turn in that resignation when he returns from his Easter vacation in Bermuda.

At least eleven of Wisconsin's delegation to the Kansas City convention chosen at Tuesday's primaries are opposed to young Bob La Follette. Apparently it takes brains as well as feet to fill pa's shoes.

Thus far this year twenty-five deaths due to crashes have occurred in the British Royal air force against forty-eight for the entire year, 1927. This comes pretty near our idea of what is meant by "making progress slowly."

Over in Canton, China, the police arrested 163 reds one day this week and have already executed 230 of them. And we used to speak of China and the Chinese as slow!

George Remus is in position to point out that it isn't every man who can point to the verdict of one court to show that he is innocent of wrongdoing and to the finding of another court to prove that he is sane.

Maybe the reason Mr. Hughes sidestepped the temporary chairmanship at Kansas City was his fear that the convention might inaugurate a drafting movement while he wasn't looking.

A Chicago "cafe" owned by a Democratic precinct captain was bombed early yesterday morning and wrecked. Are we to understand that there's a faction in the Democratic party up in Chicago which is committed to relentless warfare on King George?

A German tenor has recovered a judgment of $150 against a Munich critic who joked about his waistline, and it serves that critic right. Almost any man knows that his waistline is no joking matter.

The Cincinnati Enquirer suggests the possibility that "the highly patriotic Mr. Thompson is having all those bombs thrown in Chicago, just to illustrate the line in the national anthem which contains "bombs bursting in air." Tush! What does Bill know about the national anthem?

Responding to a call for professional services, a doctor out in Evansville, Indiana, on reaching the number given in the phone call was held up by four men and robbed of $100. We'll bet a hard-working spreader of joy and sunshine in paragraphs will never be robbed like that, not, at least, of $100.

The woman's bureau of the department of labor is authority for the statement that 2,000,000 girls under twenty are working in the United States for a living, but it's just possible that what is meant is that that number of girls under the age stated are employed in gainful occupations. There's a decided distinction between the two propositions.

Passing of Montmartre.

According to Paris cables, Montmartre is dying and soon will no more figure in the so-called wild night life of Paris. This has been said before, but upon this occasion there is little ground for questioning the authenticity of the story, and much to be had in support of it.

Strange to say, the passing of Montmartre as the scene of wickedness is not due to a falling-off in the patronage of visitors from the two Americas with more money than brains. Until very recently, at least, they seemed just as anxious to be gulled as ever, just as ready as they have been for years to pay exhorbitantly high prices for excessively poor drinks; just as ready to imagine they got a thrill out of the faked stuff as they were the first time they saw it. One might assume that visitors to Montmartre who saw the same women throwing wine bottles at each other and exposing each other's persons by tearing off each other's clothes, night after night, would begin to smell a mouse, especially since the gowns torn away do duty so faithfully and long, but they do not. They fall for the veteran stuff, just as do those who go seeing Chinatown in New York, and the faking in both cases is about equally crude.

No, the French, who are too thrifty to waste their francs in Montmartre, are responsible for its deathblow. They have made the taxes and surtaxes on the hillside and hilltop joints so high as to make profit even out of the extortionate prices charged impossible, and one by one they are closing out or moving to some other part of the city.

But there is no occasion for those who delight in taking a guide and starting out in search of the wickedness of Paris to become disheartened over the passing of Montmartre. Some other locality is bound to break loose with traps to catch the bills of visiting suckers. The French may be depended upon to do their utmost to demonstrate to their visitors the truth in that old one to the effect that a fool and his money are soon parted.

Communism Is Doomed.

It seems to be a case of just one thing after another bobbing up to trouble bolshevik Russia. At present the Russian communists are greatly worked up over the "Peace in Industry" movement, which has taken root in England, France and Germany and is rapidly spreading to other European countries. In it soviet Russia recognizes a mighty thrust at communism, which she preaches even though she does not follow it, for there can not be communism where a few leaders in power take to themselves, for their own use and enrichment, the choicest stealings, in that the movement embraces the profit-sharing system, which has gained such popularity in this country, under which workers may purchase shares in corporations by which they are employed.

The communist International of Moscow says that the adoption by Europe of American industrial ideas "is threatening the very existence of foreign communist parties and directly opposes the communist International's program for class warfare, civil war and revolution."

In a circular letter addressed to the communist parties of England, France and Germany, the executive committee of the communist International urges that they "open a desperate, merciless campaign against all forms of agreements being made between industrial enterprises and workers, especially against obligatory arbitration of differences."

The letter, which is signed by Commisar Bukharin, says that communists abroad, instead of entering into trade agreements, should adopt a slogan of more and bigger strikes, and that, a strike having been declared, communists should obtain positions on the strike committees and arrange demonstrations which will lead to open armed conflict with authorities wherever possible, "since it is only through the intensifying of the differences between capital and labor that the communist parties can increase their memberships."

The Moscow Pravda, which published the Bukharin letter, in the same article gave an account of a conference between the supreme council on national economy and the Council of Trade Unions, which, the paper discloses, broke up in a row.

According to the Pravda, several union leaders accused the economic council of graft, inefficiency, and of failing to provide enough funds to permit the industries to pay their workers regularly or purchase necessary raw materials. The labor men said the council built a huge tannery at Odessa, costing 211,000,000 rubles—about $10,500,000—more than double the original estimates. After it had been operated for a month the lack of raw materials caused a shutdown.

No doubt there are some who yet doubt that the purpose of the Russian reds is to spread revolution throughout the world and overthrow all government, that the stealings in Russia may be duplicated on a many times more gigantic scale. There doubtless are those who refuse to credit that it is the purpose of the reds to take advantage of strikes to incite mobs against law and authority and foment revolution. Yet that is precisely what we have seen down in the furriers' strike in New York City and in the textile mill strikes in New Jersey and in many other strikes throughout the land, and in almost every one of them we have seen disloyalist organizations with an American name aiding and abetting the red leaders.

Frankly, we are ready to admit that soviet Russia and her aides and friends in this and other lands have good reason to fear the "Peace in Industry" movement, the profit-sharing system and the buying of workers into the stock holdings of corporations, for there can be no question but what they are thrusts at the very heart of communism, which can not thrive save amid industrial war and disorder. But that soviet Russia will be able to stem the trend toward economic sanity as represented by the "Peace in Industry" movement is a horse of an entirely different color.

It begins to look as though communists were doomed.

It has been suggested that Senator Borah turn over the $7,000 collected by him for return to Harry Sinclair to destitute coal miners in Pennsylvania. How crude! What publicity could the Hon. William get out of the thing after the money had been turned over?

At first we looked on the report that Trotzky had been shot by a red assassin as a fake, but since soviet Russia has made official denial that he was even shot, we confess that we have been doing some guessing.

We note that a man up in New London, Wisconsin, has been elected to his fifty-third consecutive term as village constable, but what we would like to know is if he ran each time at the "earnest solicitation" of the same bunch of friends.

Poems That Live.

THE MAD POET TO THE OLD BARDS.

Brothers I would be with you at the last.
Where is the country that your feet have found?
These mortal roads are dark. I can not see.
And all the hours are pitiful and slow.
A day is like a thousand heavy years.

I am aweary and afar from home.
And now of late my lips have fallen dumb.
I hear strange words, and harsh and hollow sounds
Mean in my ears like echoes in a cave.

There is no threshold for my alien feet
No hearth is here. My pillow is a rock.
Men offer scorn for shelter, crying out
"Come, dreamer, here's a palace, at a price"

And this I answer in my silent heart:
"I will not have your comfort for my fare
I will not have your creeds to cover me,
Nor burn a candle to your puny gods.
My kinsmen are not here, they are afar.
I seek another land, another sea.
If I stay here I shall become like you
A dead thing in the midst of other dead.
The kites will pick my flesh as they pick yours.
Where are your eyes and heart? Already gone.
And though an angel beat a heavenly drum
And seven trumpets shake the upper air,
You will not heed them. You are death in life.
I seek a life in death. I will go on
Though all your empty voices call my name
Hinder me not for this is not my home."

Brothers, I shall be with you at the last.

Customs That Impair Health.

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It was said long ago by Plutarch that we "are more sensible of what is done against custom than against nature."

What did Plutarch mean by this? I will give you an example: You go to dinner with your charming neighbor. The hostess has planned a wonderful meal and with her own hands has made several delicious dishes. You have had a hard day at the office, or for some other reason are off your feed. You decline a second helping of a favorite dish, or refuse it entirely.

Your hostess protests: "Oh, you must have more of this cake! I made it myself."

Custom has made you a slave to this sort of appeal. You take the second piece of cake, or another helping of baked squash, or a third slice of home made bread.

You are wheedled into doing what you know is bad for your digestion and harmful to your body. You conform to custom, no matter what happens to your physical nature.

We are creatures of habit. We are lashed to the wheel of convention. We stay up nights, doing a million things we hate. Why? Because it is "the thing" to do, each of them a useless performance.

When are you going to begin taking care of yourself? When are you to become sensible of what is done against nature?

I realize that society makes certain proper demands upon each of us. But when you become the slave of society and can not bear to read a list of guests at Mrs. So and So's party unless it contains your name, then you are tied to the mast. You will go down with the ship of convention.

What is the use of all this if it breaks your health? It is indeed foolish to be more sensible of what is done against custom than against nature.

There are plenty of disagreeable persons who never do anything unless they feel like it. You need not be as bad as that, but you can keep in the back of your head that temperance is good for anybody. You don't need to overdo the business of being driven by the lash of custom.

Assert your independence now and then. At least half the time give thought to what is good for your health. Be sensible of nature's demands, part of the time certainly.

The great moralist stated a great truth when he said we are more sensible of what is done against custom than against nature. Let us show the shade of Plutarch that we have resolved to reform.

Editorial Opinion.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY AND OTHERS.

The preferential presidential primary of Tuesday cost the taxpayers throughout Michigan about $250,000, for which they received nothing whatever in return except the doubtful pleasure of visiting the polls if they felt so inclined. There was not even the semblance of a contest. Before the voting booths opened, everybody knew what the result must be. Yet because a stupid law made the primary mandatory it was necessary to proceed with the expensive travesty.

Even where there are contests, the Michigan presidential primary is a silly contrivance. The party voters indicate their preferences among candidates, but their expressions are not binding on anybody. The delegates to the party conventions, having been informed of what has happened at the polls, proceed to the party conclaves and vote as they think best. It is true they are supposed to be under some sort of moral obligation to follow out the expressed wishes of the voters back home. But what is a moral obligation in the heat of a hard fought party convention?

The best thing to do with the Michigan preferential presidential primary is to get rid of it, and rehabilitate the party conventions.

Indeed—since we are on the subject—the best thing to do with the whole primary system is to throw it into the discard. The presidential primary is foolish and meaningless, and cheapens the presidential contest in those states where it exists. But the ordinary primary is vicious and dangerous, and is mainly responsible for the dreadful deterioration of the public service that has struck this country like a blight since the opening of the century. In common with the presidential primary it also has a large capacity for being a nuisance. For example, in this city and state every primary shuts up the banks and clamps a brake on the machinery of business, putting it out of step with the activities of the rest of the country, and causing annoyance, delay and expense for which there is no real compensation. Of late, too, almost every local primary becomes an occasion for the presentation of a number of referendums which receive scant consideration from the voters because the voters get tired of primaries and will not attend them. In consequence, changes and projects are put over that ought not to be put over, and bring trouble and expense. This country needs fewer and fuller elections, and the first step toward getting them is to put an end to the primary.—Detroit Free Press.

A GREAT AIR LINE.

A little more than a month from now bird lovers of the eastern United States will be watching the northward migration of the warblers. This is the most interesting event on the ornithological calendar. A few of the species come to us to stay for the summer. The majority merely loiter for a few days enroute to nesting homes in Canada.

All or nearly all of the warblers spend the winter in northern South America. Their migrations are so timed that for them all the year is summer. No other group of birds displays more intelligent selection. Their flights are long, but not tremendous, and their progress is leisurely. Going northward they keep comfortable pace with the advance of spring.

A party of scientists sponsored by the Carnegie museum and the National Geographic society is about to depart for Venezuela to watch the warblers as they make ready for their northward exodus. Subsequently an ornithological survey of much of Venzuela will be undertaken, and the Americans will be waiting to welcome the warblers when they return in the fall.

The Arctic tern spends the northern summer in Greenland and the southern summer along the Antarctic continent. Its semi-annual migrations are so stupendous that they are quite incomprehensible. Other species make moderate migrations from continent to continent, like the warblers. Still others have varying ranges north and south within the United States. And many species are not migratory at all but stay with us summer and winter.

Of all the migrant birds the warblers seem to lead the pleasantest existence. A summer in Canada and a winter in Venezuela, with luxuriously easy travel northward with the late spring and southward with the early autumn. A whole year of sunshine and temperate warmth.

The intercontinental air-line of the warblers surely merits the investigation it is about to receive. No bird lover or amateur ornithologist can ever know enough of the warblers, the prettiest and most mysterious of American birds. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Knighted from Heaven.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

A unique event is described in a communication from the director of the Kyoto university observatory, Japan, to "Popular Astronomy." On April 28, 1927, a little girl of three-and-a half years, Chiu Kuriyama, of the village of Aba, near Sukatu, startled her mother by suddenly shrieking without any apparent reason. The mother examined the child and found that she had been wounded in the neck. There were two marks, one a mere scratch, the other a small, but severe, burn which took several days to heal.

The mother was nonplussed by this strange accident. No cause for it appeared, but upon more careful examination she found a little stone coming out of a fold of the child's clothes. To judge the size of a small flattish pebble, weighing about one-fifth of a gram, "felt more or less hot."

It was taken to a high school principal. He seems immediately to have suspected its nature, as he kept it for some time "as a sample for education." Finally the schoolmaster sent the stone to the University observatory, where upon careful examination by Mr. Yamamoto, the director, and his colleagues it was recognized as possessing the physical characteristics of a meteorite.

About half of its exterior was found to be covered with a black crust. The rest showed "a fresh rough surface caused by a probable breaking while moving in the sky."

They put it in their record under the name of the Aba Meteorite." Under that title it is likely to become famous, for there is but one other authenticated instance of a person being struck by a meteorite, unless we accept, with Professor William H. Pickering, the story in Joshua, chapter X, verse 11, as referring to a fall of meteorites.

At Mhow, India, in 1927, a man was killed by a meteorite. Human habitations have occasionally been struck by these missiles from space. The latest instance that I recollect occurred on December 3, 1917, when a meteorite broke through the roof of a house at Outh Lodge, Keithick, England, but nobody was hurt.

Inasmuch as millions of these bodies enter the earth's atmosphere every twenty-four hours, it may seem wonderful that they do not cause more fatalities. But the wonder ceases when we reflect that nearly all of them are smaller probably than ordinary pebbles or even grains of sand, so that, owing to their immense velocity—many miles per second on striking the amosphere—they are almost instantly consumed and dissipated in dust and gases, through the intense heat developed by friction with the air particles.

Moreover, even the massive ones are often broken into small fragments by repeated explosions during their flight through the air, as seems to have been the case with the meteorite whose heated chip hit the little girl Chiu.

In more superstitious ages one who had been hit by a meteorite but escaped without serious injury would probably have been looked upon as a favorite of the gods, the celestial blow being like the accolade that conferred knighthood in the days of chivalry. Anyhow, little Chiu's name will not fail to be recorded in the annals of astronomy.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

The agency soliciting celebrities to endorse various cigarets, health foods and such are reported to have closed their campaign. They are receiving no more names. They have more now than they can use in five years. This exploitation was an astounding illustration of how people of prominence would cheapen themselves for a few lines of valueless publicity. A few were paid—which is all right if they feel that way about it—but most of them were eager and anxious to endorse anything so long as they got the publicity. It was a gesture advertising organizations should have nipped in the bud.

Bruce Reynolds, one of the bright particular spirits of the Lambs, had his fun this season producing a play written by himself even if it did set him back some $30,000. He traveled his troupers about in a private car, fed them the best the best hotels afforded and gave them what to their Thespic minds seemed a Roman holiday. The play sparkled with snappy dialogue, but did not linger. The plot, if any, was a little too weak.

When Reynolds saw it was destined for the warehouse, he sent each member of his company the following telegram: "Immediately after the performance tonight you are cordially invited to the corner of Chambers street and Broadway to see your illustrious author dive off the Woolworth building into a teacup full of water."

Reynolds took the thrust like a true chevalier and offered no alibis. "It was fun and like all good fun costly," he says. He is one of the characters who enliven the high spots of Broadway. "His preparation of a plan is so inherently strong as to command the respect of able brains to which it must be submitted."

This is written by an observer of the methods of the late J. P. Morgan, Sr. Great business success has been built upon the foundation of careful plans. The most important thing a young man, newly out of school, can have is a plan. Lack of plan is accountable for the fact that so many men fail to seize opportunity when it presents itself. Lack of plan brings failure when success might be fairly simple and easy.

Happy is the man who has within him resources to which he can turn when the affairs of his little world do not go to his liking. The man or woman who has adopted a philosophy of life which gives to things their proper values, and who achieves serenity by making a reasonable adjustment to circumstances, is the one who has resources within himself. Quite some years ago the late Hamilton W. Mabie wrote this:

"Those inner melodies which the heart of man has been singing to himself these thousands of years are audible above all the tumult of the world, if one has a place of silence an hour of solitude and a heart that has kept the freshness of its youth."

Two Motions Filed In Suit Brought by Former Employe

Two motions, one for a new trial and the other for arrest of judgment, have been filed in Common Pleas Court by Lennon Furniture Co. through its attorney, John H. Clark, in the breach of contract suit brought by Harry Quigley, a former clerk in the store.

License Issued

A marriage license was issued in Probate Court this morning to Mose Henderson and Marie Kirby.

An answer to the suit for divorce brought by Ruth E. High against Irvin M. High in Common Pleas Court has been filed by the defendant. In his answer he states that the plaintiff filed suit for divorce in Delaware County courts last fall but withdrew the action before it came to trial. He also claims that the charges contained in the plaintiff's petition are for alleged acts said to have transpired before proceedings were filed in the Delaware County court.

The couple were married on Oct. 5, 1914, divorced in 1917 and remarried on May 12, 1919. They are the parents of one child, Paula High, 11.

She was certain that the fog had ... eventually concealed her; she would ... have sworn that no human ... except that of Uncle Charley ... her, yet with the instinct of ... hunter and woodsman—an ... that is a throwback to primitive man— ... she dismounted 200 yards from ... lookout station, led the horse in the ... timber and cautiously reconnoitered ... habitation on foot, ... approach screened by the little barn.

Cautiously she came to the corner of the barn and peered around into the yard. The coast was clear, but suddenly her heart gave a wild leap. Up the hard trail from Tantrum Meadows a horse was coming at a fast gallop!

Instantly Monica flung open the barn door. Bob Mason was sitting on a box smoking a cigaret. "Quick! Somebody's coming. I'm afraid," she panted. "The sheriff's horse is 200 yards away, on the south hillside, in the timber. Follow the trail. Your clothes are ... to saddle. Good-by—and keep away from Uncle Charley's."

With the speed of a deer startled from its bed, Bob Mason leaped to his feet and disappeared around the corner of the barn. A minute later Sheriff Bentley, riding Ranger Garland's horse, white with foam and badly spent from a furious five-mile gallop, most of which was up-hill, pulled up in front of Monica's cabin.

Monica, however, had had time to get inside and was busily concealing her riding costume when the sheriff arrived. To his lusty "Hello! Hello, there!" she thrust her head out of her bedroom window and called, "Hello, yourself. Who are you and what do you want?"

"Sheriff Bentley."

"Welcome to Bogus, Sheriff. I'll be out in a minute." Hastily she slipped into a dress and slippers and came to the door.

"Where've you been all morning?" he demanded pointedly. "Tried to raise you on the telephone at 8 o'clock and kept trying for nearly two hours. No answer. Finally got worried about you and concluded to run up and investigate."

"I'm sure I appreciate your concern more than your horse does."

"Where were you?"

Monica's smile removed the sting from her answer. "None of your business—not giving you a short answer, I hope."

"I'm going to make it my business, girl. You've been over to Uncle Charley Canfield's and you induced the old reprobate to go down to the mining company's general store at Dogwood Flats and buy a complete outfit for Bob Mason. The minute Uncle Charley left the store with his purchases the manager telephoned his suspicions to the Tantrum Meadows station. I spent the night with Garland and of course figured right away that you had something to do with Uncle Charley's activities, so I rung you up and when I got no answer I was certain you'd gone over after the clothes, and I came up hoping to be here in time."

"How do you suppose I got over to Uncle Charley's?" Monica's voice was gently taunting. "I loaned my horse to Ranger Garland last night and I haven't any airplane. Do I look like a girl who was just completed a cross-country run up hill and down dale afoot?"

"Well, no—but—well, I'm going to look around a bit."

He dismounted and strode over to the barn, with Monica at his heels. The impress of Bob Mason's body was all too apparent in the hay—and on the dirt floor a cigaret butt was still smoking.

"I'm about three minutes too late," Sheriff Bentley cried exultantly. "I know he isn't on the north side of Bogus because I looked sharp as I came up. I'll bet he ran out of this barn and around the south shoulder of Bogus when he heard me pounding up the trail."

He turned, but Monica was too swift for him. The barn door slammed in his face and the heavy lee-oak bolt shot into place a split second before his huge shoulder crashed against the door.

"You let me out," he yelled wrathfully. "You're interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty, and that's a felony."

"It's a misdemeanor," Monica corrected him. "The only way you can get out is to break out."

The sheriff was equal to the occasion, however. He realized the door was too stout for him, so instantly he sought a weak board in the rear of the barn and crashed through it like a "bronchy" bull.

Furiously angry at having been outwitted by a woman, he ran at top speed toward his horse, and the animal, frightened at his precipitate approach, backed hurriedly away.

But Monica was not yet done. She had to gain time for Bob Mason to climb that 200 yards of steep mountainside and find the horse she had left tethered in the timber; so she picked up a piece of stove wood at the woodpile and hurled it at the suspicious horse at whose reins the sheriff was wildly grabbing. It struck the horse smartly in the ribs; he wheeled, kicked out both hinds legs and fled home to Tantrum at a gallop.

Monica's peals of laughter followed him. Bentley turned savagely upon her. "You're under arrest!" he cried furiously.

"I see you're bound to get laughed out of office next November," the girl taunted him humorously. "Well, if you can't keep my secrets I see no reason why I should keep yours." And she thrust out her hands as if inviting his handcuffs.

"I guess you'll keep," he replied, and dashed into her cabin. On the wall beside the telephone was a schedule of the telephone calls for all stations on the Forest Service line; he called the Tantrum Meadows station, and Monica realized that Deputy Sheriff Nott was not answering.

"Bentley speaking from Bogus. Mason's been here. Got away less than five minutes ago. Evidently he doubled back from June-bug last night, the girl fed him and he slept in her barn. He'll head for Uncle Charley Canfield's over beyond Dogwood Flats. Telephone the mining company's office; tell them to post every man they can get on the ridges on each side of the Flats and have somebody go up to Uncle Charley's and watch...Yes, he was too smart to try the June-bug trail, and he knew he couldn't go across country at night in the thick timber. The girl has probably warned him we were concentrating on June-bug, so naturally he'll head for Uncle Charley's...Yes, yes, do that. Perhaps you can intercept him . . . Of course he's mounted—evidently this Dale girl furnished him with a horse last night. Hurry, now!"

He turned from the telephone to face Monica's beaming glance. "So I'm not under arrest, after all," she pleaded, with almost childish insouciance.

The sheriff sighed deeply. "No, you devil! You're not." He dashed out of the house and disappeared up the south trail on the heels of Bob Mason.

"Well, I suppose I might as well wash my supper and breakfast dishes and put my house in order," Monica remarked to her old Airedale dog. "If we only had a little excitement like this on Bogus about once a week we'd never get lonely, would we? No, sir-ee! Our job would be worth real money then, wouldn't it, pup?"

DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

Meditations of a Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

MY Daughter, would you rather wed a man who would then be a mere Guiding Star or his Compass?

For behold every man aspireth for a woman with vision who shall be his Guiding Star and lead him on to adventure and achievement.

Yet, likewise, every man requireth a woman with discretion, who shall serve as his compass and help him to hold his course, when the star faileth him.

For vacuous, vapid, stars and inspiring women there are in fair weather. They must be followed and looked up to and admired from afar.

But a devoted wife and a compass require only to be coupled with a little gentleness, to go on forever. And in times of storm and danger, they are at a man's right hand to comfort and guide him.

Go to. The fool keepeth one eye upon the stars and one eye upon his compass. But the wise man chooseth between them and abideth by his choice.

For he that seeketh a brilliant woman, who stirreth his imagination and exciteth his fancy, shall find his course full of tempests and high winds and emotional cloudbursts, and dangerous undercurrents. But he shall never know boredom!

He shall dream dreams and see visions and sail upon strange and thrilling high seas toward the Land of his Heart's Desire. But he shall never know peace of mind.

And he that weddeth a steadying and devoted woman, shall steer his ship of Fate in a safe and placid course, and cast anchor at last in the Harbor of Content.

But he shall never hit the High Spots, or know the thrill of adventure! And his days shall be peaceful but full of dullness.

Then ask me not, wherefore a man yearneth for TWO WOMEN in his life. For every man believeth in his heart that he requireth at least two soul-mates;

One to stimulate him—and one to steady him.

One to save his soul—and one to save his pennies.

One to uplift him—and one to hold him down to earth.

One to inspire him—and one to soothe and comfort;

One to stimulate him—and one to cure his headaches.

One to be his Guiding Star—and one to be his Compass.

Yet whichever he weddeth, he yearneth all the days of his life for the other One!

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Madge Offers Assistance

I SMILED down indulgently at Princess Olina of Transvania when she asked me if I felt it my duty to write to her mother of her whereabouts.

"Of course not," I said. "I am not your guardian, and have not the slightest responsibility for your actions. If your mother had no knowledge of your safety, I might feel the duty of one mother to another to relieve her anxiety, but you said——"

"She has the assurance in my own handwriting that I am safe and well," the Princess interrupted.

"Then the rest of the situation between you and your family is strictly your own affair, and neither I nor anyone else will meddle with it," I assured her. "But there is something in which I feel I ought to meddle as a neighbor and friend."

Her eyes widened with sudden fear. "What do you mean?" she asked.

I put my hand over hers.

"It does not take very keen eyes, my child," I said slowly, "to see that you are frightened over something which you are keeping to yourself. Indeed you have just spoken of something which is 'terrifying' you. Can you not tell me of it? Is there any danger threatening you?"

Her lips parted, trembling on the verge of speech, and I waited tensely for the explanation of the mystery of the farmhouse which I was sure she meant to give me. But the next second her lovely quivering lips closed into a thin taut line, and she shook her head, while an appeal for my forbearance came into her big pansy eyes. I pressed her hand reassuringly, and forced a nonchalant smile to my lips for I saw that some hidden compulsion was on her which I must use adroitness in fathoming. Nothing could be gained by pressing her.

"Just as you say, my dear," I told her, rising from my chair. "But please remember that I am at your service at any hour of the day or night, whether you wish to give me your confidence or not."

"Oh! I want to so much," she exclaimed, "but I cannot—must not—yet."

"Whenever you wish to see me, have Mrs. Tiger interrupt me, and I will come right away," I said. "Now, I must be going. I am [illegible] and I have [illegible] to attend to. [illegible] good-by."

I left the house and walked down the street toward my own home. I was thinking deeply of the mystery surrounding the Princess Olina, and wondering what danger threatened her, when I was startled by a voice at my elbow.

"Pardon me, madame," it said, "but I have been following you for some time, and I have a proposition to make to you."

I looked down at the speaker, a little, wizened man, with a face like a rat, and I shuddered involuntarily.

"I am not interested in any business you may have to propose," I said coldly, and started to walk on.

"But you will be interested in this," he persisted. "I have information which I will sell to you for a small sum of money."

"I am not interested in buying information," I said, and walked on.

"Not even information about the Princess Olina?" he asked.

I stopped short and looked at him. "What do you know about her?" I demanded.

"I know that she is in danger, and that you are the only person who can help her," he said.

"Then why don't you help her?" I asked.

"Because I am not a rich woman," he replied. "I am a poor man, and I must live."

"Come to my house tomorrow morning," I said, "and I will see what I can do for you."

"Thank you, madame," he said, and I walked on.

I had not gone far when I heard a step behind me, and turning, I saw the little man following me. I was about to speak to him when I saw a big limousine coming down the street toward us. It was moving very slowly, and I saw that it contained two men. As it passed me, the man on the side next to me leaned out and fired a shot at the little man, who fell to the sidewalk. The car sped on, and I bent over the man, who was dead.

I was horrified, and I looked around for help. A policeman was coming toward me, and I called to him. He came up and looked at the man, and then at me.

"Did you see who did it?" he asked.

"Yes," I said, "I saw the whole thing. The man was following me, and he was shot by someone in a passing car."

"Did you know him?" he asked.

"No," I said, "I never saw him before."

"Then why was he following you?" he asked.

"He said he had information to sell me about the Princess Olina," I said.

"Who is she?" he asked.

"She is a friend of mine," I said.

"Then you know who did it?" he asked.

"No," I said, "I don't know who did it, but I think I know why he was killed."

"Why?" he asked.

"Because he was going to tell me something about the Princess Olina," I said.

"What was he going to tell you?" he asked.

"I don't know," I said, "but I think it was something important."

"Then you must come to the station with me," he said.

I went with him to the station, and told my story to the captain. He listened attentively, and then he said:

"This is a serious matter. The man was murdered, and you are the only witness. You must stay here until we can get to the bottom of it."

I was detained at the station for several hours, and then I was allowed to go home. I was very much upset by the whole affair, and I could not sleep that night. I kept thinking of the little man and his proposition, and wondering what he had to tell me about the Princess Olina.

The next morning I went to the station and asked to see the captain. He came out to me and said:

"We have found out who killed the man. It was a gang of thieves who have been operating in this city for some time. They were afraid that he was going to tell you something that would implicate them, so they killed him."

"Did you find out what he was going to tell me?" I asked.

"No," he said, "we have not been able to find any trace of him. He had no papers on him, and we do not know who he was."

"I am very sorry," I said, "but I cannot help you."

I went home and tried to forget the whole affair, but I could not. I kept thinking of the Princess Olina and her danger, and wondering what I could do to help her.

That afternoon I received a letter from her. It was written in a hurried hand, and it said:

"Dear Madge: I am in great danger. I cannot tell you what it is, but I need your help. Can you come to me at once? Olina."

I was very much alarmed by this letter, and I decided to go to her at once. I called a taxi and went to her house. When I arrived there I found that she had left for the country. I was very much disappointed, and I did not know what to do.

I went home and thought the matter over. I decided that I would go to the country and see her. I packed my bag and went to the station. I took the train for the country, and arrived there in the evening. I went to the house where she was staying, and found her in a state of great excitement.

"Oh, Madge," she said, "I am so glad you have come. I am in great danger. I cannot tell you what it is, but I need your help."

"What is the matter?" I asked.

"I cannot tell you," she said, "but I am in great danger. I need your help."

"I will help you," I said, "but you must tell me what it is."

"I cannot tell you," she said, "but I am in great danger. I need your help."

I was very much puzzled by her behavior, and I did not know what to do. I decided that I would stay with her and help her if I could.

That night I slept in her room, and I was awakened by a noise at the window. I looked up and saw a man climbing in. I was very much frightened, and I did not know what to do. I called to the Princess, and she came to my room.

"What is the matter?" she asked.

"There is a man climbing in the window," I said.

"Oh, my God!" she said, "it is the man who killed the little man. He has come to kill me."

"What shall we do?" I asked.

"We must get out of here," she said.

We went to the door and tried to open it, but it was locked. We were trapped. The man came in the window and advanced toward us. He had a gun in his hand, and he said:

"You are my prisoners. You must come with me."

"Where are you going to take us?" I asked.

"To the house of the man who killed the little man," he said.

"Why are you going to take us there?" I asked.

"Because he wants to see you," he said.

"Who is he?" I asked.

"He is the leader of the gang of thieves who have been operating in this city for some time," he said.

"Why does he want to see us?" I asked.

"I don't know," he said, "but he wants to see you."

"We will not go with you," I said.

"You must go with me," he said.

"We will not go with you," I said.

"You must go with me," he said.

"We will not go with you," I said.

"You must go with me," he said.

LOCHER IS SENATOR, BLOOM SUCCESSOR

Zimmerman May Be Donahey's Appointtee to Lieutenant Governship

tivities. He is married. A daughter Mrs. W. J. Rowland, lives in Columbus.

Locher, aged 50, is to serve until his successor is elected next November and has qualified. This ends the governor's appointment to a senate of little more than eight months or until Dec. 15, it was stated.

Declaration has been made that Locher will be a candidate to succeed himself, for the balance of the term of the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis which ends on March 4, 1929. He expects to be sworn in at Washington on April 16.

A member of the Cleveland law firm of Locher, Green, Woods and Lausche, Locher has served as commerce director since January, 1927. Throughout his tenure as a member of the governor's cabinet, Locher has borne the reputation of being one of Governor Donahey's most intimate advisers in governmental as well as political affairs.

Was Prosecuting Attorney

Locher was prosecuting attorney of Cuyahoga County two terms from 1913 to 1917, inclusive, and was assistant city solicitor of Cleveland in 1908-1909. After announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator two years ago, Locher withdrew after former U. S. Senator Atlee Pomerene, Cleveland, entered the contest for this nomination.

Bloom recently announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor. His friends were of the opinion that his appointment as commerce director will aid him in his desire to obtain the gubernatorial nomination. He is 57 years old.

Elected for the first time in 1916 as lieutenant governor, Bloom was defeated for reelection two years later. He was elected again in 1922, defeated in 1920, and again elected lieutenant governor in 1926.

DENIES CHARGES

Says D. A. R. Not Inspired By K. K. K.; Has No "Blacklist"

Orange, N. J., April 6—Mrs. William A. Becker, State Regent of the D. A. R. today answered the charges made by William Allen White that the D. A. R. "blacklist" was partly inspired by the Ku Klux Klan.

Mrs. Becker denied that the D. A. R. is the "Ku Klux Klan in sheep's clothing" and she insisted that the D. A. R. has published no "blacklist."

She says the organization has no objections to any speaker, no matter what creed or color, so long as he is loyal to the constitution of the United States.

PLAN IMPROVEMENT OF UPTOWN STREETS

Main and Center-sts Included in Program To Go Before Council

program of improvement for the central business section of the city.

Councilmen Consulted

Several members of council, it was stated today by a representative of the proposed organization, have been consulted and have given the project encouragement. Councilmen, according to the report, recognize the need of street improvements for the uptown district and have indicated their readiness to give favorable consideration to the plans now under way as soon as the city is in position to take care of the financing.

With work now in progress assuring a high grade and attractive thoroughfare on W. Center-st, the thought is that the central business section should be improved and modernized in the same manner.

The new organization, according to plans outlined today, will propose that council give the uptown project first place on the city's improvement program following completion of the W. Center-st widening and paving.

Probable Next Year

Should council act in accordance with that request, it is probable that the improvement work in the central section would be scheduled for next year. All necessary legislation would be passed this year in order to assure getting the work started as early as possible in 1929.

Council has already practically decided to complete the W. Center-st paving up to Main-st next year. Should this be done, along with the Main-st and E. Center-st improvements proposed in the petitions now being circulated, 1929 will go on record with one of the most important and extensive street work programs in the city's history.

"NO POLITICS," WARNING GIVEN TO DRY AGENTS

Washington, April 6—Prohibition agents who participate in political activities during the coming presidential campaign will be dismissed from the service, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, in charge of dry operations, announced today.

Nationwide Campaign Launched to Teach Kids Safety Habits to Check Appalling Death Toll

Those two boys at the upper left may get a leg broken—or worse—if the car happens to hit a sudden bump. Anybody who runs around behind a trolley, as the boys in the upper right panel are doing, is liable to be mowed down by a passing auto. The "hitching" cyclist at lower left finds himself in a bad jam—and he can't blame the motorist, either, after he wakes up in the hospital! The juvenile roller-skaters (lower right) are having a fine time now—but supposing something hits them? These are a few stunts that lead to a gigantic toll in children killed and injured in the streets.

RADIO BROADCASTING AGAIN UNDER X-RAY

Experts from Various Departments Meet with Federal Commission

Washington, April 6—Radio broadcasting went under the x-ray again today, preparatory to its semi-annual major operation.

Broadcasting experts from the War and Navy Departments, Bureau of Standards and private industry, met with the Federal Radio Commission and started a new diagnosis of the disease which has kept radio in a constant state of heterodyne fever for three years.

A dozen times radio has been laid out for diagnosis and as many times there has been a nationwide reallocation of wave lengths, shifts in power and division of broadcasting time, resulting in constant confusion and misery for the listener.

The commission today took under consideration several plans by which the redistribution clause of the new radio act may be administered without eliminating long-distance reception and at the same time giving each section of the country an equitable distribution of stations.

Plans for reallocations contemplate the setting up of national, regional and local groups of stations, of probable maximum powers of 20,000, five hundred and one hundred watts. The channels upon which these groups of stations will operate are to be equally apportioned among the five radio zones.

From 30 to 50 national channels, 36 to 56 regional channels and four local channels are considered likely. On the cleared channels for the national stations, there would be but one station per wave length, assuring satisfactory "Dx'ing."

"BUNNY" FOILED

Eggs Containing Diamond Ring and Liquors Found by Girl

Cleveland, April 6—Several Easter eggs from Europe will not reach their destination Easter Sunday, it became known here today, after Miss Genevieve R. Cline, appraiser of customs at the Federal Building, opened a large box addressed to an Ohio girl.

One innocent looking candy egg in the package, Miss Cline said, instead of having a candy filling, was hollow and contained a diamond ring valued at $200 wholesale. Other harmless looking Easter candies contained liquor, according to the federal appraiser.

CHICAGO DOCTOR GRANTED STAY BY SUPREME COURT

Springfield, Ill., April 6 — Dr. Amante Rongetti of Chicago, sentenced to die in the electric chair in Cook County for the death of a young girl upon whom he is alleged to have performed a criminal operation, today won a stay of execution when the supreme court allowed him a writ of error and supersedeas. The writ automatically grants Rongetti a new lease on life until the high court can review the case.

Common sense can be taught; but that kind is acquired through pain.

AH, IMPROVING

Chicago Officials Say Crime Dropped 85 Per Cent In Month

Chicago, April 6—An 84 per cent reduction in crime during the month of March in Chicago as compared with March last year was shown here today by the efficiency list of operations of the detective bureau.

The list, compiled by the chief of police, indicates there were 445 crimes in March a year ago and only 70 of this year.

Incidentally, one burglar was killed and two escaped in a robbery here today; a policeman died as the result of gunshot wounds received from bandit guns; 14 robberies were reported; one bomb threat was received and numerous petty thefts were recorded.

WILKINS DELAYED

Cloudy Weather Handicap to North Pole Expedition

Seward, Alaska, April 6—Delayed by cloudy weather, Capt. George H. Wilkins, noted Australian explorer, and his pilot, Carl Eielson, were today awaiting a favorable opportunity to take off at Point Barrow on the contemplated aerial expedition over the North Pole to Spitzbergen.

A two-day silence, during which it was conjectured that Captain Wilkins and his pilot might have already launched the hazardous air journey over the frozen polar wastes, was broken by a radio message from the famous explorer received at the United States Army wireless station here.

FORMER GANG LEADER IS TO HANG, COURT RULES

Springfield, Ill., April 6—Charley Birger, former leader of an outlaw gang in southern Illinois, today lost another round of his fight to escape the gallows when the supreme court denied his motion for a rehearing.

The high court at the February term affirmed Birger's conviction and death sentence in Franklin County and unless executive clemency is extended, Birger will mount the scaffold at Benton, Friday, April 13 and pay with his life for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, Ill.

CLINGS TO LEDGE

Warren Woman's Hanging Out 28th Floor Is Unexplained

Columbus, April 6—Mrs. J. A. Dearborn, Warren, who was saved from death yesterday, as she clung from a window ledge of the twenty-eighth floor of the A. I. U. Building, today was reported to be in a nervous condition in her hotel here.

Members of the family did not explain how Mrs. Dearborn got into her perilous condition when building employes were warned of her danger and pulled her to safety.

Mrs. Dearborn, several hours after the incident, said she had slipped from the window while seated on the ledge.

FEDERAL JUDGE TO QUASH WRIT SHIELDING DRY AGENT

Chicago, April 6—City and county authorities today were claiming victory in the brush with government officials over the custody of Myron Caffey, Federal prohibition agent who is accused of shooting William Beatty, municipal court bailiff, during one of George E. "Hard-Boiled" Golding's dry raids here recently.

Federal Judge James Wilkerson announced he would quash the writ which has shielded Caffey from arrest by local police. Judge Wilkerson mildly criticized the United States attorney's office for its conduct of the case and suggested that the county grand jury indict Caffey.

ONE DEAD AND ANOTHER DYING AFTER DISPUTE

Wheeling, W. Va., April 6—William H. Pratt, 50, of Warwood, W. Va., is dead, and Fred Boltz, 45, is reported dying in the Ohio Valley General Hospital here, as the result of a dispute and shooting at the Boltz home on Wheeling Island. Boltz is said to have fatally shot Pratt, and then turned the weapon on himself. Pratt was a plastering contractor. Boltz was employed by him.

BOOK FULFILLS CURWOOD AMBITION

"THE Plains of Abraham", the new novel soon to be released by Doubleday Doran, is the fulfillment of James Oliver Curwood's great ambition although he did not live to see the volume from the press. The great-grandson of a Mohawk princess and the great nephew of Captain Marryat, the English adventurer whose stories are still classics of the sea, Curwood had a great heritage of American tradition. He had always intended to write a series of historical novels incorporating the rich background of his own wanderings and the historical information which he had collected through years of patient research.

"The Black Hunter" was the first of this series and the new novel, a story of the heroic battle between Wolfe and Montcalm, one of the most dramatic incidents in history, is the second. Mr. Curwood had always lived close to primitive America, his God was Nature and in his books he preached the beauty of his creed. Most of his stories are of the north, since he spent much of his time adventuring in the Arctic and loved the region. Such books as "River's End", "The Valley of Silent Men", "God's Country and the Woman", "The River King" and "Nomads of the North" were written while Curwood was living in the north.

ROMANCE, HISTORY IN CHAMBERS BOOK

THE pomp and majesty of romance and history march across the pages of Robert W. Chambers' newest novel, "The Sun Hawk." The stormy, volcanic personality of Count Frontenac, affectionately nicknamed "the Sun Hawk" by "the Sun King," Louis the Fourteenth is the central figure of the story. The time is some years earlier than that of "The Drums of Aulone." Mr. Chambers' previous novel in which Frontenac also figured.

The vivid contrasts of military, church and governmental life, the vast wilderness peopled by Indians, the early settlers and their struggles to clear the land, the Indian runners and their secrets of the woods— these are the threads with which Mr. Chambers weaves his most brilliant and animated historical tapestry.

SUCCESSFUL LIAR, ASSERTS WRITER

Mason Locke Weems, the fiddle-playing parson who originated the immortal fable of truthful George Washington's adventure with the cherry tree, was one of the most successful liars in American history, according to his modern biographer, Harold Kellock, whose "Parson Weems of the Cherry-tree" has just been published by The Century Co.

Parson Weems, Mr. Kellock says, was an amusing and eccentric clergyman who gave up the pulpit for the more lucrative calling of traveling book agent who later became the author of the first American best-sellers. In 1800 he wrote and published the first biography of George Washington which has since passed through more than 70 editions. The cherry-tree incident, however, did not appear in the first edition. It was not until 1806 when the Parson was revising his work for the fifth edition that he decided to bolster up his story of Washington boyhood with this exemplary bit of veracity.

Regrouping of Four-Trunk Line System is Reported Agreed Upon By Executives

Roads Considered Worth from Five to Ten Billion Dollars and Operate 50,000 Miles of Trackage; Marks Step Forward Toward Consolidation

New York, April 6—Regrouping into a four-trunk line system of railroads worth from $5,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 and operating more than 50,000 miles of trackage, was reported today to have been agreed upon by powerful railroad executives after a series of meetings held behind closed doors in this city.

The agreement was reached only after a threatened break between L. F. Loree sponsor of a fifth trunk line between east and west, and the railroad officials who favored the four-trunk system. The break was averted by Otto H. Kahn, a member of Kuhn, Loeeb and Co., bankers for Loree and his proposed system.

After negotiations had apparently failed, Kahn called another meeting at which the agreement was reached. It was said on seemingly credible authority that the plan calls for four trunk lines, and not five, and that the plan as finally presented was satisfactory to Loree. Under the plan, it is understood, Loree's Delaware and Hudson is assured of access to the West.

Marks Step Forward

The agreement marks a long step forward toward consolidation of the eastern lines, but it does not mean that this goal—which railroad executives have been working on for months—has been achieved. The Interstate Commerce Commission must pass on the final plans and their hearings probably would require six months. The minority stockholders must be given opportunity to raise objections to he merger, if they have any to make, and the interests of individuals and communities must be given consideration.

Loree's five-trunk line plan was doomed at a meeting on Wednesday when the Pennsylvania Railroad definitely withdrew its support to that proposition. The Pennsylvania, however, does support the four-trunk system which eventually became acceptable to Loree. Loree had planned a line to the West (the fifth-trunk) to be formed be the Wabash Railway, the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh and the Delaware and Hudson, or, alternatively, the Lehigh Valley. To connect the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh with the Delaware and Hudson, Loree at one time had an agreement for track age rights with the Pennsylvania but this no longer exists.

The railroad executives who sat in at the sessions here this week would not discuss the agreement for the new four-trunk system. Loree would neither affirm nor deny the report, referring inquirers to W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who presided at the meetings.

Wall Street Muses

In Wall Street, it was generally believed that Loree's Lehigh Valley holdings probably had been traded to the Pennsylvania in return for an important part in the new alignment. The Wabash Railway, which runs from Buffalo to Chicago and Western points and in which Loree has large holdings, may be shared with the Baltimore and Ohio, which has desired that road. The New York Central had been reported as due to receive the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

Among those present at the deliberations this week were President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania, Loree, P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio; J. J. Bernet, president of the Erie; O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen of the Nickel Plate; A. J. County, financial vice president of the Pennsylvania, and George V. Shriver, senior vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio.

PROGRAM MARKS OBSERVANCE OF DAY

Pupils of Waldo School Hear Talk on Seven Last Words of Christ

Waldo, April 6—Pupils of the Senior and Junior High Schools observed Good Friday with services held this morning in the school auditorium under the direction of Superintendent K. W. Povenmire and Paul D. Smith. Herbert Roesch read the service with scripture readings from St. Luke and Miss Juanita Allemndinger read a poem, "Such a Morning," Culp. The seven last words of Christ on the Cross were presented in a talk by Superintendent Povenmire and the service closed with prayer by L. B. Fidler.

GOOD FRIDAY TO BE TOPIC AT REVIVAL

Dr. Davis To Preach at Trinity Baptist; Special Program at U. B. Church

A Good Friday sermon by Dr. F. S. Davis, pastor, will feature the revival services tonight at Trinity Baptist Church. Dr. Davis announced as his sermon subject, "The Cross in the Heart of the World." There was a large attendance at the service last night when D. L. Moody and Leland C. Embry, evangelists, conducted a song service. Dr. Davis preached on "The Man Who Bore the Cross of Christ," the story of Simon.

Miss Gertrude Essex, woman evangelist from Cleveland, preached on the text, "Where Are Thou?", Genesis 3:9, at the revival service last night at Oakland Evangelical Church. Miss Essex and her co-worker, Miss Irene Blue sang a duet.

"The Power and Glory of the Cross" was the subject of the Good Friday sermon preached by Rev. Carl Vernon Roop of Findlay at the revival service last night at First United Brethren Church. There were two conversions. A special feature of the service was the vocal number, "The Old Rugged Cross," sung by B. K. Hill.

Proof of Love

"The cross is indicative of God's love to men," the evangelist said in part. "All nature magnifies God's wisdom, the heavens declare His glory and the firmament showeth His handiwork. The Ten Commandments tell us God is holy, punishment for sin tells us He is just; the cross expresses His love.

"The cross stands for willingness," he continued, "for suffering and sacrifice, and for victory. It met Judeaism in the first century and conquered that, conquered Pagan philosophy in the second, third and fourth centuries, conquered English deism in the last century, French skepticism, and is meeting and conquering modernism today. And it is safe to conclude that there is power and glory and efficacy enough in the cross of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ to conquer anything that may arise in the future," the evangelist said in closing.

GETS WHITE RIBBON

Richard Eugene Shurley, great-grandson of Mrs. Anna Ogleshee, S. Main-st, received his white ribbon at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. He was taken in by the superintendent of the department.

Easter Message To Be

SATURDAY NIGHT FEATURE

Given By Dr. Cadman

"A National Easter Message" will be delivered by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federal Council of Churches, over radio stations associated with the red network of the National Broadcasting Co. at 11 o'clock Saturday night.

The service is the first of its kind ever to be broadcast the night before Easter. Dr. Cadman is probably the best-known religious speaker over the radio and is pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn.

The Federal Choristers, consisting of Marjorie Norton, soprano; Grace Leslie, contralto; Cyril Pitt, first tenor; Hooper Muir, second tenor; George Miller, baritone; and James Phillips, bass, will present a musical program during this broadcast. The ancient Latin song for Easter, "O Filii," which is so old that no one knows its real origin, will be introduced in the anthem "Alleluia, Now Is Christ Risen." George C. Martin's "As it Began To Dawn" will also be heard.

This same network at 7:30 o'clock will present Arcadie Birkenholtz, violinist, and Mathilde Harding, gifted pianist, in a joint recital, playing as their opening number "Sonata in D Major" by Handel.

Quartet Feature

Saturday night the blue network will present as a special program the Grand Opera Quartet at 7:15 o'clock. The quartet, members of which are Genia Zielinska, soprano; Devora Nadworney, contralto; Giuseppe di Benedetto, tenor, and Theodore Webb, baritone, will open the program with "Gaily O'er the Ocean" by Abt, closing with "Good Night," from Flotow's "Martha." A number of solos will be heard in this presentation.

Schubert's "Symphony No. 1" will open the RCA Hour at 8 o'clock with the andante movement being played by the New York Symphony Orchestra conducted by Walter Damrosch. Bach's "Gavotte for Strings in E" will follow, the program continuing with excerpts from "Die Walkure," by Wagner.

During the Philco Hour at 9 o'clock "Sadko," an English adaptation of "Zigeunerpraimas," will be presented with Jessica Dragonette in the title role.

At 10 o'clock the blue network listeners will hear "The Seven Last Words of Christ", by Theodore Dubois, presented by a group of singers under the direction of Hugo Mariani. This sacred cantata is for soloists, chorus and orchestra.

Sunday's Programs

A week of Lenten music and programs will be brought to a close Sunday—Easter—with broadcasts over the red and blue networks of the National Broadcasting Co. of special services appropriate for the occasion.

Opening the day's programs over the red division Sunday morning will be the Easter Sunrise Service under auspices of the Army Medical Center. This will be broadcast direct from the Garden Amphitheater of the Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, at 7:30 o'clock.

The United States Army Band, an officers' chorus of 32 voices, a children's choir, and Mrs. Walter K. Wilson, soprano soloist, will furnish the musical program. An Easter message will be delivered by Col. Edward Easterbrook, chief of chaplains in the United States Army.

Throughout the day Easter music will predominate the programs. Addresses will be given by Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, D.D., Dr. Daniel A. Poling and Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, all nationally known radio speakers.

CRABBE STEPS OUT OF HOOVER'S DRIVE

Takes Action, He Says in Letter, as Result of Willis' Death

Columbus, April 6—Announcement that former Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, Columbus, has withdrawn from active support of the Hoover presidential campaign, as a result of the recent death of U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis, was made today at Willis state headquarters.

Col. Carmi A. Thompson, chairman of the Willis delegates' committee, it was stated, issued a letter to organization workers throughout Ohio stating that "the election of Willis delegates (from Ohio to the Republican national convention) means that these delegates are not bound unalterably to any one candidate, but are in position to vote for such outstanding Republicans as Vice President Dawes, former Governor Lowden of Illinois, former Secretary of State Hughes, or President Coolidge, if, and when, their names should be presented to the convention."

Colonel Thompson said he had received hundreds of telegrams letters and telephone calls indorsing the action taken by the Willis delegates and alternates here Thursday night when they adopted their resolution substantially announcing that, if elected, they would go to the national convention as an uninstructed delegation.

Cites Crabbe Letter

Stating that it "is typical of many messages which I have received from former staunch supporters of Secretary Hoover, Colonel Thompson made public a copy of the letter written by Crabbe to Willard Miller, Columbus, chairman of the Franklin County Hoover Committee.

The Crabbe letter, as announced by Colonel Thompson, follows:

"It is with regret that I ask to be relieved as chairman of the speakers' bureau and that I be released from further activity in connection with the Hoover campaign.

"Although I have felt that Secretary Hoover would make a good president, I was also an admirer and personal friend of Senator Willis and in accord, in the main, with the principles for which he stood.

"I was shocked by the tragic death of the senator and feel that an aggressive campaign at this time against the delegates which he has selected is, in effect, taking advantage of the dead and out of respect to the memory of Senator Willis, I feel that I should refrain from further activity."

Louis Dehmer of Tiffin Is Awarded Contract for Surface-Treating Roads

To Be Done on 43 Miles of Improved Highways in Marion County; Bids Are Opened by Board of Commissioners

...'s bid of $14,162.10 won ... for furnishing and ap... gallons of two grades of ... asphalt to be used in sur... Marion County roads dur... summer. The contract ... yesterday afternoon by the ... County Commissioners.

Bids were submitted by six firms. Dehmer's headquarters are in Tiffin.

While Dehmer's bid was $129.28 higher than the bid of T. D. Van Camp, of Columbus, on 69,851 gallons of two grades of tar he was awarded the contract due to the fact that he also offered a bid on furnishing and applying the liquid asphalt, while Van Camp bid only on the two grades of tar, the commissioners explained.

Had Van Camp been awarded the tar contract it would have necessitated dealing with two firms and the total cost would have been greater than the figure at which the bid was let, the board pointed out.

Bids on Coal Tar

Dehmer's bid on 30,356 gallons of coal tar was $3,450.57. The estimated cost was $3,964.32 at 12 cents a gallon. Van Camp's bid on the same product was $3,420.03. On 39,495 gallons of medium tar Dehmer's bid as $4,522.18 while Van Camp bid $4,423.44. The estimated cost was $4,739.40 at 12 cents a gallon.

On the asphalt Dehmer's bid was $153.21 lower than his nearest competitor, McHugh Bros., of Springfield, who bid $6,341.88. The estimated cost of the 50,495 gallons of asphalt was $7,-102.90 at 14 cents a gallon.

The bids of the six firms follow:

Coal tar: McHugh Bros., Springfield, $3,817; U. S. Construction Co., Upper Sandusky, $3,525.85; Louis Dehmer, Tiffin, $3,430.17; Ohio Road Improvement Co., Columbus, $3,481.10; T. D. Van Camp, Columbus, $3,420.03; Barrett Co., Cleveland, $3,502.46.

Medium tar: McHugh Bros., $4,-936.88; Louis Dehmer, $4,522.18; Ohio Road Improvement Co., $4,502.43; T. D. Van Camp Co., $4,423.44; The Barrett Co., $4,530.07.

Liquid asphalt: McHugh Bros., $6,-341.88; U. S. Construction Co., $6,-519.45; Louis Dehmer, $6,180.67; Ohio Road Improvement Co., $6,433.10.

Gravel to be used in the surface treating will be provided and applied by the county. A sweeper to clean the road before starting the work and other machinery necessary to apply the tar and asphalt will be furnished by the contractor, according to provisions of the contract.

Forty-three miles of improved road in the county are to be treated, according to Cecil R. Leavens, county surveyor. The work is to be completed between the dates of June 1 and Aug. 15.

Roads Included

Coal tar will be used in treating parts of the following roads: Winnemac-rd; Marseilles-Galion-rd; Mt. Olive-Green Camp-rd; Claridon-Westfield-rd; Likens-rd; Fairground-rd; Madison-av.

Medium tar is to be used on the following: Marseilles-Galion-rd; Agusta-Merker-rd; Mt. Olive-Green Camp; Prospect-Waldo-rd; Newman's-Cardington-rd; Richland-rd; Caledonia, northern; Mt. Olive-Agusta-rd; Morral-Brush Ridge-rd.

The following will be treated with liquid asphalt: Winnemac-rd; Irvin Sheets-rd; Mt. Olive-Green Camp-rd; Prospect-Upper Sandusky-rd; Goodnow-rd; Hilman Ford-rd; St. James-rd; Gearhiser-rd; Ringert-rd; Cardington-rd; Claridon-Westfield-rd.

PROSPECTIVE JURORS CAREFULLY CHECKED

Employment, Families, Religious and Fraternal Affiliations of 500 Investigated

Washington, Apr 6—Federal agents and private detectives today were completing an exhaustive inquiry into the private lives of the 500 men and women from among whom the jury will be selected to try Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate and sportsman, and Mammoth for criminal conspiracy and fraud the government charges in the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve.

This investigation had to do with the nature of employment of each of the veniremen and their families, their religious beliefs and fraternal affiliations whether or not they own oil stocks, their general reputations and a score of other facts. The government's investigation is being conducted by agents of the department of justice.

The names of jurors are not known, but it is understood the work is being done in the most private manner possible, by lawyers or by special agents.

Questioning is being exercised by both sides. Since a juror is under a six-month obligation to the temptation of corruption as a result of having the Harry Daugherty-Jesse Smith scandals to shadow the jury that convicted the notorious race track baron Edward Lasker, F. L. Siddons of the District Supreme Court has ruled that jurors showing bias or prejudice will be excused by the government or the defense at once.

KILL TAX CUT OR RELIEF, SAYS KING

Legislative Program Authorizes Federal Outlay of $1,750,000,000, He Declares

Washington, April 6—Kill the tax reduction bill or kill all special relief legislation.

This warning was served on Congress today by Senator William H. King, Democrat of Utah, who pointed out that the legislative program of Congress now authorizes an outlay of $1,750,000,000 of federal funds.

If this program is enacted into law, King declared, the Treasury surplus will be wiped out like a "drop in the bucket" and the government confronted with a terrific deficit. If tax reduction legislation is enacted on top of this King added the deficit will be only that much greater.

Congress must cut down on its present program of new appropriations, the Utah senator said, or abandon tax relief legislation for years to come, the expenditures within the next year under the current legislative program, he added, will total $500,000,000 more than double the expected 1929 surplus.

Aged Mill Employe Instantly Killed at Huntsville Crossing

WM. F. HERREN HIT BY TRAIN

Train Crew Unaware of Tragedy Until Arrival in Kenton

Kenton, April 6—William F. Herren, 70, mill worker of Huntsville south of here was instantly killed late yesterday afternoon when struck by a north Bond Big Four passenger train at the Main-st crossing in Huntsville.

The body was horribly mangled, pieces strewn along the tracks for a distance of a quarter of a mile being gathered up by bystanders.

Members of the train crew were unaware of the tragedy, it was said, until they reached the Kenton station. Particles of flesh, splattered blood and pieces of clothing on the front of the locomotive told the mute story.

Watching Another Train

The tragedy occurred when Herren stepped from the Huntsville mill near the crossing and started toward the downtown district across the tracks. According to information he apparently was watching a freight clearing the crossing and failed to see or hear the oncoming passenger.

A watchman was standing guard in the center of the street. The only eyewitness was a 15 year old boy whose name was not learned.

This is the third fatality at this crossing in the last 28 years, the last death being that of Dr. F. A. Richardson four years ago when the auto in which he was riding was struck. Twenty-eight years ago a man by the name of John May met death.

There are surviving the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Robert Campbell, Bellefontaine, and two sons, Charles of Bellefontaine and William of Lilly Chapel.

May Make Slight Changes in Rules at Recreation Meet

MANAGERS, CAPTAINS TO ATTEND BANQUET AT CHURCH THURSDAY

George Gauthier, Ohio Wesleyan University, May Be Speaker on Program

BY KARL R. MELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

Slight but important changes in rules are expected to be made during the annual recreation ball banquet to be held next Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock at Wesley M. E. Church.

These changes will be made, it was learned today, to eliminate much of the minor trouble that was prevalent throughout the season last year. Just what changes would be made could not be learned.

Preparations are being made to take care of at least 150 persons at the annual banquet. Letters to managers and captains of some 40 teams have been sent out by President John Clark. Each team will be required to submit the number of players expected at the meeting.

According to present plans the recreation season will open about May 10. This may be postponed a few days if weather conditions are not favorable. Indications are pointing to approximately the same number as last year in the five leagues. A few teams may drop out but others are being formed in their place.

As was done last year, it is planned to print copies of the rules complete with all changes to be handed to every member of the various teams.

Efforts are being made to secure George Gauthier, director of athletics at Ohio Wesleyan University, as the banquet speaker. Arrangements for the affair are in charge of President Clark.

When a man is trying to fib himself out of a social scrape—if it doesn't concern us—we kind o' like to see him succeed, don't we?

OLD MASTER SWAT RECORD STANDS

The newer heroes may occupy the limelight at present, but their batting averages have never surpassed that of Hugh Duffy (upper left), now head baseball coach of Boston College, Mass. Playing with the Boston National League club in 1894, Duffy made his season record of .438, which has never been reached by any successor, even Babe Ruth (lower right), the Home Run King, or Rogers Hornsby (center), six-time National League leader.

Spring Fishing Season Is Calling Ohio Sportsmen

Columbus, April 6—Ohio sportsmen now oiling their reels and repairing their rods for the spring and summer fishing have the option of five lakes aggregating nearly 29,000 acres, all of them state owned and located in state parks.

Lake St. Mary's near Celina is largest containing 15,784 acres. This lake extends into Auglaize and Mercer Counties in northwestern Ohio.

Indian Lake, probably the best known, is second in size and is located in Logan County near Bellefontaine, containing 6,134 acres.

Although third in size Buckeye Lake near Hebron extends into more counties than any of the other lakes. It covers 3,136 acres in Licking, Fairfield and Perry Counties.

Portage Lakes, south of Akron and Loramie Reservoir near Ft. Loramie each cover about 1,900 acres. Portage Lakes are located in Summit County and Loramie Reservoir is in Auglaize and Shelby Counties.

All of the above named lakes offer good angling and are open to public fishing. Poles can be rented for five or 10 cents a day and boats by the hour or day.

Many Species

Probably the best known fish found in these lakes are Black bass, calico bass, rock bass, crappies, bluegills, yellow perch and various kinds of catfish.

A check-up by the State Fish and Game Department shows 44 species of fish are found in Buckeye Lake, 42 in Portage Lakes, 27 in Indian Lake, 26 in Lake St. Marys and 16 in Loramie Reservoir.

Probably the best natural baits for Ohio fishing are, minnows, night crawlers, crawfish and helgrammites. Usually these baits can be bought at the lakes according to the State Fish and Game Department.

Since the number of fishermen in the United States has increased greatly during the last few years bait is getting more scarce and several good kinks are given by the State Fish and Game Department for keeping them.

Minnows can be kept in a bucket by placing a piece of ice in the water, and by aerating the water with a pump to keep it supplied with oxygen. Damp grass or moss is best for crayfish and worm should be kept in moist soil.

Undersize fish or fish caught out of season can be given a fighting chance if the hands are moistened before taking them from the water to remove the hook. By giving the little ones a chance, eliminating the "fish hog" and complying with the regulations of the Fish and Game Department, Ohio fishermen can greatly aid the officials in the conservation of Ohio's fish and offer real sport to the followers of Izaak Walton.

SQUAD FROM SMALL KENTUCKY SCHOOL IS FAVORED IN TOURNEY

Dayton Stivers Eliminated by St. George Cagers of Utah

Chicago, April 6—A team of rangy mountaineers, hailing from Carr Creek, Kentucky, stood out today as top favorites to win the national interscholastic basketball tournament being played at the University of Chicago.

Tom Slade's quintet representing a remote district school with a total enrollment of less than two score boys, fought its way to the quarter finals last night by beating Bristol, Conn., 19 to 13. Bristol was the last of the easterners.

But Carr Creek is not Kentucky's only hope for annexing the coveted title. A Mint-Julep five from Ashland is still in the race, having triumphed yesterday over Oregon, Mo., 41 to 22.

Vienna, Ga., another classy southern five drew the tough assignment of facing Carr Creek in today's quarter finals. The Kentuckians are favored to win, but Vienna may spring the big upset of the meet.

The Peaches qualified by defeating Oak Park, Ill., 40 to 18.

Ashland battles today with still another southern five, Morris, Alabama. The latter team gave the large gallery a thrill by running through hte highly-rated Coeur D'Alene five from Idaho. The score was 31 to 21.

Five of the eight surviving teams hail from Dixie. Beside the four mentioned there is Alexandria, La., who won out yesterday over Jacksonville, Fla., 24 to 19. The other three teams still in the race are Canton, Ill., Grand Forks, N. D., and St. George, Utah.

Cnton beat the flashy Tulsa, Okla., quintet, 19 to 15; Grand Forks eliminated Mize, Miss., 38 to 20, and St. George defeated Stivers High of Dayton, O., 27 to 25.

Canton is paired today with St. George, and Grand Forks meets Alexandria. The semi-finals and finals will be played tomorrow afternoon and evening.

WOODBURY TO PILOT BOYLE CAR IN RACE

Front Wheel Drive Machine Entered in Indianapolis Speedway Event

Indianapolis, Ind.—Cliff Woodbury, the Chicago speedster who is a target moving so swiftly that even pistol bullets can't cope with his rapidity, will pilot a front wheel drive Boyle Valve Special in the International 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway here May 30, it was announced today.

Woodbury, a modest young chap who is a husband and father as well as being one of the most daring of the present day speed artists, got his first training in making corners at high speed on the dirt tracks around Chicago.

Starting as an exercise boy of speed cars he wheeled his way through the competition around the Windy City and became the logical Chicago district representative of the speeders of the world. He has upheld his honor well.

He first appeared at the Indianapolis track four years ago, a brisk youngster whose close cropped blonde hair waved in the breeze of his first speed in the fastest company. He caught on immediately.

Three years ago he announced when he began his racing preparations at the track that he was to wed before the race, braving matrimony with the air that with new responsibilities in private life he was going to make it a little more difficult for the money grabbers on the track. He did.

The following year when he came to the training grounds he proudly announced there was to be an heir to his racing trophies. The babe arrived just before the race and to show his realization of added responsibilities he won third place, the best he had done on the famous oval that has made heroes and dubs of some of the biggest racing names on either continent.

NEW YORK YANKEES GET BACK STRIDE; WIN GAME

Charlotte, N. C., April 6—The New York Yankees were all set to slaughter the local team here today. The world's champions finally hit their stride against Knoxville yesterday swamping the sally leaguers 11 to 4. Lee, Durocher, St. Paul Rookie, clouted a triple and a homer and Babe Ruth hit a single, a double, and a triple.

Who remembers the good old days when they cut a mince pie into four pieces only?

STRAIT OF GIBRALTAR CROSSED BY WOMAN SWIMMER OF LONDON

Undaunted by Six Previous Failures, Girl Succeeds on Seventh Attempt

Ceuta, Morocco, April 6—Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London's typist swimmer, today holds the distinction of being the first swimmer to successfully navigate the Strait of Gibraltar.

Undaunted by six previous failures, the girl swimmer entered the water at Tarifa, Spain at 7:50 o'clock yesterday morning and reached the shore at Punta Leona, Spanish Morocco, at 9 o'clock last night.

Aided by favorable currents and moderately tempered water, the Miss crossed the 27-mile stretch of water in 13 hours and 20 minutes.

Prior to her attempts to conquer the Gibraltar Strait, Miss Gleitz had successfully negotiated the English Channel. She swam the channel on October 7 1927, on her eighth attempt, and was the third woman to perform that feat.

The greyhound is one of the oldest breeds of dogs. Pictures of greyhounds with the same characteristics as the racers of today, have been found on Egyptian monuments over 5,000 years old.

GIANTS MARK UP TWELFTH WIN; DEFEAT NATS 4 TO 0

Norfolk, Va., April 6—Unless the National League clubs prove far tougher than the American League opposition encountered by the New York Giants this spring, the McGrawmen are likely to win the pennant in a cakewalk. The New Yorkers hung up their twelfth straight victory in beating the Washington Senators at Charlotte, N. C. yesterday, 4 to 0. Bill Walker, southpaw recruit from Denver, held the Nats to two singles, and Bill Terry and Shanty Hogan hit home runs.

For 22 years the Jackson Day run conducted by the New Orleans Y. M. C. A. has been one of the notable athletic fixtures in the Crescent City. The course followed by the runners, from Spanish Fort to Jackson Square, is the same as that taken by Lafitte's band of pirates when they hurried to notify Gen. Andrew Jackson of the plans of the attacking British. The race is run each year on January 8, the date of Jackson's victory in the battle of New Orleans.

Willie Hoppe won the 18.2 balkline championship for the first time on March 27, 1908, in New York, defeating George Sutton, 500 to 272. Hoppe averaged 20.83 and had a high run of 99, against an average of 11.33 and a high run of 83 for Sutton. Hoppe held the title about a week and then retired temporarily, returning the championship trophy to the donors.

FORMER MANAGER OF DEMPSEY SAYS JACK IS DONE AS FIGHTER

Kearns Arrives in New York To Press $700,000 Suit Against Ex-Champ

New York, April 6—Jack Dempsey will never fight again in the opinion of his former manager, Jack Kearns, who has arrived in New York to press his suit for $700,000 against the ring heavyweight champion.

"Dempsey is shot," Kearns declared. "I don't think he can ever get up to fight a good man. I don't know about his eyes but he knows it's through. He's nearly 33 years old and doesn't need the money.

"Jack is worth close to $3,000,000 in real estate, bonds, other investments and ready assets. I hope to make a dent in his bank-roll when our case comes to trial."

The Kearns-Dempsey litigation breaks out again on April 12 in the Federal District Court here.

PREDICT VICTORY

Mexico City, April 6—Almost certain of victory, the American tennis team faced Mexico here today in the first of the American Zone Davis Cup matches. Many observers predicted that the United States stars, led by the veteran "Big Bill" Tilden, would make a clean sweep of the matches.

A FRIENDLY TIP TO MEN ABOUT EASTER

Women like style; they particularly want it for Easter Day.

Not only style for themselves but also for the men in their families.

Perhaps the "gentle hint" about dressing up has already been dropped.

Think of it this way—a stylish appearance on your part is an attention women appreciate.

Here is something else they appreciate—that clothing or furnishings from this store are always stylish and of the finest quality.

Walsh Selects Yanks to Win American League Pennant

CLEVELAND INDIANS GIVEN SIXTH PLACE WITH POOR HURLING

The writer, of course, thinks the Yanks can win again or he wouldn't have them at the top. Their present speed is somewhat less than nothing ... meaning that they have been going approximately nowhere at a terrible ... From the standpoint of psychology, I think this will prove to be all the ... best.

Depends on Pitching

I have confined my comment to the Yanks so far, because, obviously, they are the key team of the situation. The others may come forward a bit but the Yanks will have to go back a lot to finish outside first money. It isn't good horse sense to figure that they will. The real question they must answer is pitching and I think they will get just ... to ride on through. Hoyt and ... should win 35 games between ... Senators a Mystery

Washington is the mystery ball club of the proceedings. Not even Harris himself can say definitely what his team will do, since young players in critical positions like shortstop and centerfield just can't help tingeing the future with uncertainty. I somehow look for the Senators to lose some of their hitting, too. If this statement is borne out, they will have to place too much strain on their pitchers to be rated now at better than fourth place.

It is difficult to see where the Chicago White Sox, the Cleveland Indians, the St. Louis Browns and the Boston Red Sox have improved themselves greatly between seasons. The Red Sox, for example, were many games back of seventh place at the pay last fall and they have undergone almost no major changes. The club was coming along some at the finish and undoubtedly figures to make a better showing in 1928. But, unless something very radical happens in the immediate future, the assumption must be that the Sox still are a last place club.

Browns Are Wrecked

Browns, on the contrary, tore themselves right up between seasons, leaving only a one-year veteran as a 1928 regular. They don't expect to get anywhere and their present strength indicates that they won't be disappointed in the slightest. Their juvenile second base pair may come through at that, but the Browns can't be a ball club until they get a few pitchers.

Cleveland and Chicago are almost a stand off. The former has the superior punch, the latter having pitching and general defense. It is for this reason that I think they look to be the better bet at this stage of the proceedings, although that Indian staff might suddenly decide to return to its 1926 form, in which case all bets are off. The Indians, however, aren't much of a ball club at this writing, the Sox having considerably more balance.

GIANTS AND PIRATES EQUAL FAVORITES IN WALL STREET BETS

Yankees Are Odds-on-Choices To Repeat in American League

New York, April 6—With the opening of the baseball season only five days off, the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates are equal favorites to win the National League pennant and the New York Yankees are odds-on-choices to repeat in the American League race, according to considerable wagering reported by W. L. Darnell & Co., Inc. The odds on the 16 big league teams are quoted as follows:

National League: Giants, 2½ to 1; Pittsburgh, 2½ to 1; St. Louis, 4 to 1; Chicago, 5 to 1; Cincinnati, 6 to 1; Boston, 12 to 1; Brooklyn, 20 to 1; Philadelphia, 40 to 1.

American League: Yankees, 3 to 5; Philadelphia, 2½ to 1; Washington, 3 to 1; Detroit, 5 to 1; Chicago, 15 to 1; Cleveland, 10 to 1; St. Louis, 20 to 1; Boston, 40 to 1.

EXPECT INSTRUCTIONS TO LESSEN DISPUTES

Heydler Sends Interpretations to National League Umps on Puzzling Rules

New York, April 6—Disputes concerning the interpretation of baseball rules by National League umpires are expected to be decreased this season by the annual instructions sent out today by President John A. Heydler to his staff of 14 umpires. President Heydler laid down concise and clear interpretations of points which puzzled some of his arbiters last season.

One ruling probably will increase the number of home runs in the senior circuit this season. President Heydler told his umpires that a ball hit into any stand or over any inside fence at least 250 feet from the home plate should be called fair or foul according to where it passes from the actual playing field. The front of the stand or the inside fence, instead of the spot where the ball strikes the stand, will guide the umpire in determining whether the hit is fair or foul.

This means that hits which curve into foul territory and strike some visible object will be legitimate homers provided they are fair hit when they pass the actual playing field. Sluggers such as Chick Hafey of the St. Louis Cardinals, whose hits travel close to the foul line and hook or slice like golf drives, will benefit by the ruling.

Solitude may induce lonesomeness, but it was La Bruyere who said "All our misfortunes come from our inability to be alone."

BRESSLER AND STATZ HIT 'EM HARD AS DODGERS WIN

Raleigh, N. C., April 6—Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers was elated today by the batting of Jigger Statz and Rube Bressler in Brooklyn's 15 to 2 victory over Atlanta yesterday. Statz, whose weak hitting has kept him on the bench, got into the game as a pinch hitter and socked a home run. Bressler, who apparently has regained the slugging ability which featured his career with Cincinnati, got four hits.

SAVE A LITTLE

New York, April 6—Babe Ruth saved $70,000 in 1927 and Lou Gehrig made more on a month's barnstorming tour last fall than the Yankees paid him for the entire season, it is revealed in an article in the current issue of Collier's Weekly.

OUT FOR TEAM

Cleveland, April 6—The Cleveland Athletic Club has announced its intention to send Rose Bocarde, of this city, women's national diving champion, to the Olympic team trials in New York.

JOE SEWELL TO BE BACK AT SHORT WITH INDIANS

Louisville, Ky., April 6—Shortstop Joe Sewell, of the Cleveland Indians, injured during training at New Orleans, expects to be able to resume play within two or three days. Cleveland plays the local American Association club here today. Uhle has been selected to pitch for the Indians. The Tribe lost yesterday's game at Montgomery, being shut out by the Alabama boys, 4-0.

10 Percent Interest of Jimmy Johnston In Jack Sharkey Is Hindrance, Not Help

By FRANK G. MENKE

JACK SHARKEY glowers at Jimmy Johnston, the latter glowers at various referees and judges—and that's the aftermath of the 10 percent thing that turned pugdom on its left ear not so long ago.

It's a sad story, mates—or maybe it's just a laugh. You shall decide.

Not so many moons ago when Sharkey was one of those contending contenders somebody up and whispered to him:—

"Get Jimmy Johnston in on your game."

It was then broadly hinted that Sharkey could make no better deal for himself than to let Johnson be some sort of manager or have something to do with his ambition to get a crack at Gene Tunney.

"And why is that?" asked the general public.

"Huh," snorted the very smartest of the smart people, "don't you birds know your stewed spaghetti? Ain't Johnston the pal of Jim Farley? And ain't Farley chairman of the New York Athletic Commission? And ain't the chairman got plenty to do with who referees and when and all that?

"Yeah— and then what?" persisted general public.

Would Be Favored

"Yeah, yourselves, yah poor boobs" scoffed the wise ones. "Cantcha see? Can't get the idea that if Johnston is part of Sharkey's retinue or whatever they call a fighter's assortment of managers—why Sharkey ain't going to get the worst of it, is he?"

Whether that was the argument put to Sharkey and his manager is not a matter of public record. But it is generally established that one fine day it was announced that Johnston was to be an associate manager for Sharkey and that he was to get 10 per cent of Sharkey's earnings.

"Now," commented everybody who knew anything at all, "Sharkey is all set. He can't lose. He'll win the tournament and be the guy to fight Tunney."

Called a Draw

In his very next brawl— the one with Tom Heeney—Sharkey seemed to have won by a mile on the matter of points. To the astonishment of the multitude—and to the amazement of the "protected" Sharkey—the officials called it a draw.

Not so long afterward Sharkey fought again—pitted against Johnny Risko. Defeat meant his elimination; victory meant a shot in the finals and a crack at Tunney in case he won. The boys scuffled for 15 rounds. When it was all over the official announcer declared:—

"The winnah—Risko!"

Since that time Johnston is getting plenty of joy out of life spending about $8,000 that he collected from Sharkey via the 10 percent process—and all the while Sharkey ponders and glares and scowls and cusses the day when somebody suggested to him that "Jimmy Johnston's the man for you."

Johnston's Side

Every yarn has a couple of sides—and the other one is Johnston's.

"If anybody says Sharkey got the rough deal with me in his corner I'll agree," comments Johnston. "When I became an assistant manager the word got around that I was going to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for Jack.

"What happens? Oh, nothing, except as soon as Sharkey would climb into the ring and I'd climb in after him, the officials would take a few life sized looks at me, hitch up their trousers, grit their teeth and wear an expression that said—:

"So Johnston's got a pull, hey? He's the guy that's going to win for Sharker, hey? Well if Sharkey does any winning it'll be over our dead bodies. We aint going to take any chances of having anybody say that we were parties to any bum deal that favored Sharkey.'

"And," concluded Jimmy Johnston, "they weren't."

Any man with one nickel can now buy himself a ripe tobacco cigar that has never been equaled for the money

NO PERHAPS about it—no maybe—Havana Ribbon will revise every estimate you ever had of the cigar-purchasing power of a nickel. Havana Ribbon stands ready to prove that a five-cent cigar, made as Bayuk makes it, can be a really good cigar; that it can give you true, mild tobacco flavor without pungent bitterness or insipid flatness.

Here's the secret: Havana Ribbon contains no under-ripe top leaves of the tobacco plant. No over-ripe bottom leaves. But only fragrant fully-ripe middle leaves, age-mellowed and blended into a roll of completely satisfying smoke enjoyment.

Try Havana Ribbon. Shove a small five-cent piece across the nearest cigar counter and see how big it is coming back—in genuine cigar value.

Mrs. Boyer Says Child Has Won Husband's Heart

For the Easter Feast ~
Sugardale
Sugar-cured Ham!

YOUR family is beginning to count the days to the Easter feast. For they know there will be nothing but the best on the table that day. So plan now to make it a Sugardale Ham feast—for Sugardale Ham is the best you can buy.

It has a flavor no other ham approaches—a flavor that blends skillfully the delicate sweetness of the new Sugardale sugar-cure and the irresistible tang of the smoke-cure—a juicy sweetness that will make you want a second and third helping.

And, too, beside its exceptional flavor, it is a remarkably economical ham for hungry people. Cut from carefully selected, specially fed, tender young porkers, a Sugardale Ham will give you more steak and less bone, weight for weight, than any other. One glance at the full, plump shape will tell you that.

There are Sugardale Hams for all, but we suggest that just to be safe you place an order for yours today at your favorite market. Then you'll know that your Easter feast is complete.

Sugardale

And for the evening supper, treat your family to some of the delicious Sugardale prepared meats: Hanover Ham, Pinto Loaf, Goose Liver Sausage, or any of a number of others that your market has. These Sugardale products come to you all ready to serve—just slice them and put them on the table. You'll appreciate that relief from cooking on Easter evening.

Four-Year O'Neill Search Lags as Teapot Dome Trial Opens in Capital Monday

Too Late Now To Get "Missing Link" in Government's Chain of Evidence; Plenty of Dramatic Material for Detective Stories

[illegible] April 6—After a four-year [illegible] throughout Europe for James [illegible] during which he eluded the [illegible] hunters" of the American [illegible] service, the dragnet for the [illegible] American is relaxing for it is [illegible] time to get him back to the [illegible] States for the Teapot Dome con- [illegible] trial of Harry F. Sinclair, [illegible] scheduled to open in Washing- [illegible] Monday. O'Neill was wanted [illegible] a United States Government as [illegible] star witness in the Sinclair [illegible]

[illegible] has been regarded as the [illegible] link" in the government's [illegible] evidence to support the ac- [illegible] that Sinclair was guilty of [illegible] to defraud the government [illegible] Teapot Dome oil lease.

[illegible] have been few man-hunts so [illegible] and so fraught with material [illegible] picture stories" as that for the [illegible] witness.

Flee to Europe

[illegible] of the maze of allegations around the leasing of the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve to Sinclair by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall in 1924, American federal authorities felt certain of one fact—to obtain conclusive evidence they must find Harry Blackmer and O'Neill, officials of the Continental Trading Co.

On their first efforts to find Blackmer and O'Neill federal agents learned that the men had fled to Europe. In less than a month it was reported they were on a hunting trip in Africa.

American consular officials and diplomatic authorities throughout the world were notified of the hunt for Blackmer and O'Neill but two years rolled by before tangible results could be recorded.

Meanwhile the Walsh law providing for confiscation of $100,000 of the property of any American who resisted service of a subpena aboard was passed. Later the American consul at Marseilles "caught" Blackmer in a train pulling out of Nice. Blackmer refused service and later directed his American attorney, Nathan Miller, to a vault in Washington where reposed $100,000 in Liberty Bonds which were confiscated as the penalty of Blackmer's defiance of the law.

No Pretense of Hiding

From that day Blackmer made no pretense of hiding. Today he lives at the Plaza Athenee, one of the palatial hotels of Paris. Operatives hoped to catch O'Neill through his former partner. The Plaza Athenee was under surveillance for a year, but O'Neill never showed up.

Blackmer was always willing to receive reporters and chat with them but as soon as they mentioned O'Neill's name he became "hard boiled" and said the interview was at an end.

O'Neill is listed in the American directory of France. He owns a villa, San Antonia, at Cannes. Mrs. O'Neill lives there and receives every one cordially.

Inquiries get an invariable reply:

"I have not the slightest idea where my husband is."

During the past few weeks the trail got hot and detectives were sure they had located the missing American at San Remo, but the "tip" proved false O'Neill still is at large.

WEATHER STILL BAD

Dublin, April 6—Weather reports today gave no indication that conditions would improve sufficiently within the next few days to warrant a take-off for America by Captain Koehl and his companions. Meanwhile, the Junkers monoplane Bremen remained in its hangar at the Baldonnel Airfield with everything in readiness for an immediate start, should the weather reports become favorable.

O. S. U. TO USE NEW ENROLLMENT PLAN

Prospective Students Required To File Estimate of Abilities

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

Columbus, April 6—High school graduates considering enrollment at Ohio State University in the future will be asked to estimate their own personal abilities in a new entrance application blank, recently adopted by the university entrance board.

The new form, which has been approved by Ohio high school principals and the State Department of Education of Ohio, has been devised so that the university can assist the new students in their later developments. In the blank, which will be sent to the prospective students, they will be asked to rate themselves as to literary and scholastic ability and also other attainments.

Analysis of Character

They also will be asked to judge themselves on the basis of force of character and leadership. Under this heading comes evenness of disposition, responsibility, leadership and personality. Similarly they will be questioned as to their "output of energy," including health, industry in studies and vigor in games.

The blank also calls for an unmounted photograph of the newcomer, a custom which is used rarely in the schools and colleges of the United States. The student's estimation of his own ability is in addition to other required personal data which will include his official high school scholarship record and a form to be filled out by his high school principal or a high school teacher.

The personal history will be used to help the student get settled at the university. It will probably be established for the fall term next year.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

T... Friday, and bright and ... sun got up. Jubilee ... down. When I ... built and gas going ... with the milk and the ... Jubilee thought ... at the cat and make her ... a loud bark and started ... only put her back and ... waited for him, so he ... and ran out towards ... He was barking so hard ... he was after something ... after him to see what ... he was only fluffing ... behind that way to make ... that it was something ... barking at in the first ...

... first fella's in the barn ... flag of Tripe, because he ... had paddled him and ... with the brown again. ... rabbit don't hurt him at ... Banty said he hollered like it ... Lon Younkins and Peedie and ... and the Last Rag of ... girl crawled out into the ... everyone he crawled him and ... the laugh.

... race has started, and Banty ... about with three of the finest ... I ever saw. I had won ... them and would of had him ... his nag her came sailing ... school yard and got him by one ... took the one he had left away from him, and made him tell her that I had the other two. She saw that were at the ends of the legs of the piano stool and he had got them off somewheres and filed the glass balls out of them to use for marbles. She said his father would marble him when he got home tonight. Then she shook him till his teeth rattled and went away. He grinned at me when she got out of sight and said he would get the marbles anyhow. He said there isn't any way they can be put back on the piano stool. I told him the marbles wasn't all he would get, and that made him so solemn. He didn't get over it all day. We went around to the shoe makers and Banty tried to get a piece of leather to put in his pants, but the shoemaker said leather costs money.

We all hid out behind the board fence with our eyes to the cracks when his father got home, and pretty soon here his father came bringing Banty out to the paint shop. Banty hollered so loud that I thought he was being killed, and his mother ran out and told his father to not kill him. The Last Rag of Tripe looked so pleased that I patted him one.

When Banty came out he said his father hadn't licked him at all. He just hasted the side of the shop and told Banty to holler, so as to fool his mother. That is the kind of a father a fella could be proud of.

Holiday Gong Ends Fifth Flashy Market Week

REACTION IN BUSINESS SEEN

Individual and Corporate Wealth in United States Increases Steadily

BY W. S. COUSINS
International News Service
Financial Editor

New York, April 6—When the closing gong of the New York Stock Exchange sounded at 3 o'clock on Thursday, it rang down the curtain on the end of the fifth week of the most spectacular and turbulent stock market ever known to this or any other generation.

For the most part, the violent uprising in stock prices, which added about three billion dollars to the valuation of the outstanding stocks of 200 hundred or more American corporations, was ushered in unceremoniously and unostentatiously, without the sounding of the toscin which usually heralds the approach of the bull cohorts.

As a matter of fact the bull movement of March, 1928, was probably not born in Wall Street, but in the counsel chambers of the officials of one of America's greatest industrial producers, the General Motors Corporation. These officials, knowing full well the effect of a large buying movement in the stock of their corporation, nevertheless determined to go out into the market to purchase a block of 200,000 shares of the common stock of General Motors, in order to round out their holdings for themselves and the thousands of employes of the company.

Eight Points First Day

Buying of the stock began on March 3, and the first day's activities boosted the stock eight points to 143. It was not until after the whole 200,000 had been acquired that the public was acquainted with the details, and then stock was selling around 165, concluding, however, that the stock still offered unlimited possibilities for income and profit, American investors rushed into the market to buy at any reasonable price and General Motors soared to within a point of 200.

While this important incident was without doubt the opening gun in the raging bull market of March-April 1928, it was by no means the most important.

Accumulating evidence of a reaction in American business, following almost immediately on the heels of the unprofitable year for many industries in 1927, had gradually crystalized bearish sentiment in the financial district, and wholesale short selling of the industrial stock leaders had been so completely liquidated that practically all the stocks were in strong hands.

Wealth Increases

While all this was in progress, individual and corporate wealth in the United States had been steadily increasing. Since 1924 wealthy Americans have been combing the security markets for safe and attractive forms of employment for their ever-increasing surplus funds. Bond prices in the interviewing period had risen to such an extent that they were no longer attractive and investors more and more sought the stock market.

In this realm of security purchasing these investors found conditions very much to their liking. Not only could they derive an excellent income from high grade stocks, but appreciation in stock values brought them profits they never dreamed of.

More and more they pursued the dwindling floating supply of stocks, even at sharp increases in the prices they paid; but this made little difference, since the higher they moved, the more buoyant they appeared to be.

Cheap strawberries for Easter, was the prediction of local produce men today. Grain Market

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, April 6—Yesterday was a bad day for bulls in all the grain markets except rye, which held its own, and even made a slight gain in the face of sinking wheat, corn and oats prices. At the end wheat was 5-8 to 1 1-8 lower; corn was down 1 3-8 to 1 3-4; oats were off 5-8 to 1 1-8 but rye was 1-4 to 1 1-8 higher.

A private report from Vienna said that stocks of rye on the entire continent were exhausted and that no new rye will be available from European crops before August. This situation probably accounts for strength in the domestic rye market.

With the other grains there was never much hope of better prices from the start. Liquidation of longs who had overstayed their market went on persistently from the start in wheat, corn and oats.

Speculative Readjustment

It seemed to be a case of readjustment of speculative interests preparatory to the holiday today more than to any development in crop news or conditions. From private crop reporters, touring the wheat belt and the corn country, dispatches were mainly bullish.

Planting abandoned wheat acreage to corn and oats is said to be contemplated in many sections of this state, Indiana and Ohio. But in these states old corn has been pretty well cleaned up.

A visitor at the Board of Trade, formerly in the government grain service, told me that in Ohio where he is now in the grain business, corn has been so closely marketed that buyers have to look around over a considerable area to find any.

Corn Cribs Empty

In a large part of the belt empty cribs are reported to be far in excess of the number of full ones.

It was rumored that a good export business was being done in wheat on the break, and in corn commission houses were big enough buyers around the low price to make some judges believe that liquidation in that cereal might have run its course.

In the cash market wheat was 4 cent lower; corn was off 1-2 to 1c; oats were down 1-2 to 1c; rye was firm, and barley was 1 to 2c lower.

Today the Board of Trade is closed. Business will be resumed tomorrow after the Good Friday holiday.

Treated Corn Seed Outyields Untreated 5 to 15 Bushels per Acre
Remarkable Results secured by U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, State Agricultural Colleges, Big Seed Houses, and Thousands of Corn Growers throughout the Corn Belt
Every experienced corn grower knows that heavy corn losses are due either to unsuspected disease in the seed, or to disease in the soil infecting the seed after it is planted.
Bayer seed treatment protects seed corn from disease both on the seed and in the soil. It prevents seedling blight, root rot, and other diseases that literally steal the results of your hard work in hot fields.
'At a cost of less than five cents an acre, it has increased corn yields for thousands of practical corn growers from 5 to 15 bushels per acre. It insures germination and sturdy growth never before possible from poor seed and handles the best seed by protecting it from injurious and costly attacks of soil-infesting organisms.
Easy to Use
You need no special equipment for this new seed treatment. No matter if large or small quantities is to be treated. Two ounces of seed can be treated in less than three minutes.
Trust Other Seeds Too
Use Bayer seed treatment for peas, soybeans and other vegetables and field crops to control seed and seedling diseases. Write for booklet telling how to treat each crop.
Tests Conducted by U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Show that the Bayer Dust treatment of nearly disease-free Dent Corn gave an increase of 8.5 bushels per acre; of Diplodia infected seed, 15.8 bushels, and of Gibberella infected seed, 20.9 bushels.—Phytopathology, Jan., 1928
Read what users say about actual field tests:
HENRY C. REINERS, Shelby, Ill.: "The stand of treated corn was better than the untreated. The color, growth and vigor of the treated corn was much better. There were less missing hills and they seemed to grow more uniform. We could see no difference in the maturity of the two plots. The treated corn matured a little earlier."
JESSE A. BOYER, Mifflin, Pa.: "I planted 1 bushel of treated seed and 1 bushel of untreated seed. The treated seed produced 2 bushels more than the untreated."
